U.S. TRANSPORT GOES DOWN IN PACIFIC

4,000 Troops Saved as Ship Sunk

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(A P)—The former liner President Coolidge, operating as a United States army transport fully-loaded with approximately 4,000 troops, hit a mine and sank in the south Pacific, the navy department announced today, with a loss of only four men.

"Prompt and efficient rescue efforts" were credited with holding casualties to so small a number, the Navy said.

The Navy announcement did not disclose if what area of the South Pacific the 21,936-ton vessel was operating at the time and said merely that she was on a war mission.

The names of those lost were not given, but it was stated that the survivors included Henry Nelson, the master of the President Coolidge.

This was the 10th transport announced by the Navy as having been sunk by enemy action.

The sinking of five transports in operations off North Africa early last month, was reported Dec. 3. Prior to that the loss of four troop carriers in the Solomons area had been disclosed.

The President Coolidge was the largest of the 10.

The vessel was owned by the American President Lines of San Francisco but had been chartered and operated by the war shipping administration for the army. It was completed in 1931 at the Newport News, Va., shipbuilding company.

IN RECENT WEEKS

Of the actual loss of the vessel the navy said only that it "was lost in recent weeks in the South Pacific."

"The vessel, operating as a transport, was fully loaded with troops and equipment when it struck a mine and sank," the statement continued.

"Through prompt and efficient rescue efforts, casualties were limited to four men."

A Navy spokesman said that there were approximately 4,000 troops aboard the ship with only a few score crewmen.

INSTALMENT VI
Dead Jerries Differ

IN THE remarkable brightness of the desert moon, Johnson's face is shining with eagerness again. His eyes are starry and his wide mouth is half parted in that shy smile of his. His head is cocked slightly to one side and he sits there on his heels in the sand like a terrier about to leap for a ball.

"This trench is better than getting it in a city," I remark. "No bricks on your head."

Johnson looks across at me sharply.

"I'd like to be back in England." He waits until five explosions fade away. "You know, sir, it's strange being out here. I don't mind the desert. I don't like it, but I don't mind it, either. It's just so bloody quiet out here."

"Well, it isn't quiet tonight."

"Oh, we get these raids about every night. You know what I mean. No real action. My wife, now, she writes me how worried she is about me, to be very careful, and how she prays for me every night, and all that. That seems, well, sort of silly, now doesn't it? All we're about is muckin' around in the desert. It's them back home that take the dirty end."

He pauses then, and in that slight hiatus in the anti-aircraft fire and the bomb blasts, all the horrors of the heavens seem to open up. We both jerk down into the ditch, faces in the sand and my ears feel as thought someone had slapped them with the flat side of a paddle. The trench seems to rock like a lifeboat in a tossing sea and there is a low, sucking swish of wind rushing past. And then it is gone, and my ears ache a little, and I begin to untie the knots in my stomach, and the muscles in my arms suddenly seem a little tired.

"Lucky, that one was," Johnson says, spitting out sand. "They hit a dump of land mines."

I'd seen such a dump this afternoon. A pile of square, black affairs to be buried alongside the roads or across sand trails to send invading tanks or transport cars sky high.

Without penitence or pause, the bombs and ack-ack resumed.

"Never satisfied," I mutter. "They got something. They can go home now." Johnson pays no attention to my complaint.

"I don't like to say this, sir, you being a war correspondent."

SAND IN TEETH

"Oh, go ahead, Johnson. All I'm doing up here is getting sand in my teeth. Besides, if it's good they'll censor it."

"Well, it's like this: Compared to the people at home, a man doesn't feel he's doing his duty out here."

"Why, sure you are, man. If you didn't hang on to this desert the Germans would be here and you'd be back near Suez, or beyond."

"Yes, but I might be back in England, too. That's where the action is, sir."

A dead Jerry is a dead Jerry, Johnson, wherever you shoot him."

Hit by Truck, Man Is Killed On 97 Street

Victim of the slippery street conditions, Arthur F. Magee, former owner of the Magee Block, 9517 118 avenue, was killed instantly when struck by a truck driven by William Schlitt, Stony Plain, at 11:15 a.m. Saturday.

The accident occurred on 97 street about 100 feet north of the 106 avenue intersection.

According to eye-witnesses Mr. Magee was crossing 97 street at a point considerably north of the 106 avenue pedestrian path when he slipped in an icy rut and fell to the ground.

Schlitt, operating a truck for Nick Kanuga, city lumber truck operator, was coming south along 97 street and was about 125 feet from the scene of the accident as Mr. Magee fell.

Schlitt slammed on his brakes immediately, and the truck swerved wildly in its efforts to get out of the deep rut. The front wheels worked their way out of the rut, but the hind wheels struck Mr. Magee as the truck swerved sideways along 97 street.

The man was dragged at the wheels of the truck for another 60 feet before the truck came to a stop along the west curb at the intersection facing in the opposite direction.

He died in a few moments.

Mr. Magee was more than 80 years old.

Although he had owned the Magee Block, he disposed of this some time ago and recently lived at the corner of 97 street and 106 avenue.

Coroner's Detective William McDonald is continuing investigations.

SATURDAY DECEMBER 12

Europe: R.A.F. warplanes fought their way through cloud banks to blast northern Italy before dawn today attacking the royal arsenal city of Turin for the third time this week.

Allied planes of the Middle East command again bombed the Italian port of Naples in daylight yesterday, setting fires along the entire waterfront and scoring hits on merchant vessels. The Italian high command admitted heavy damage. Naples is a main Axis base for supplying the German-Italian armies in North Africa.

In addition to the attacks on Naples and Turin, long-range Allied fighters winging out over the Mediterranean, intercepted a convoy of north-bound Axis transport planes, shooting down at least eight transport, one bomber and four twin-engined fighters.

North Africa: Fighting in mud described as worse than "the mud on the Somme" in the First Great War, British, American and French troops were reported holding a line in the hills before Tunis and Bizerte today after crushing a strong German drive toward Medjez El Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis.

The Germans suffered heavy infantry losses in the Medjez El Bab fighting, but it was also apparent that the deep Allied wedge between Tunis and Bizerte had been forced back many miles. Madjez El Bab is about 20 miles southwest of Tebourba, the scene of last week's major action.

British headquarters reported cryptically that "developments in the El Agheila area are proceeding according to plan without interference from the enemy."

Russia: Soviet dispatches said the third big battle for the Don river "Elbow" west of Stalingrad appeared to be under way today, with the Germans launching repeated attacks on the east bank of the river.

Front-line reports said the Russians were repulsing all assaults and declared 60 more Nazi transport planes were destroyed Dec. 10, a four-day total of 153, as Hitler urgently sought to bolster his siege armies by air.

Pacific Theatre: Cut off from their main base, Japanese forces are fighting for their lives in a trap five miles from Buna on the northeast New Guinea coast. Australian and American troops advanced along the main inland trail and got behind the enemy, springing the trap before the surprised Japs knew what had happened.

Around Buna itself, Allied field guns and mortars are pouring a withering fire into Japanese positions. The Allied communique says a number of enemy machine-gun and anti-aircraft nests have been silenced.

Naval observers in Washington believe that the enemy may have put into operation a new air base in the central Solomon Islands, to the west.

Canada Builds Huge Power Project

ADOPT POLICY

Conservative Party Re-Named as Bracken Elected New Leader

By WILLIAM MURPHY
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Reporter

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—John Bracken, premier of Manitoba, was the choice of delegates in convention here to lead the new Progressive Conservative party and they armed him with the most advanced economic policy ever adopted by a major political party in Canada.

The convention adopted the principle of "parity prices" on wheat, the payment of storage on the deliverable quota of wheat and an advance payment on that quota; the creation of price stabilisation corporation to control price fluctuations, and the validation by constitutional amendment of the Natural Products Marketing Act so that orderly marketing in agriculture can be effected under its provisions, and the setting up of a credit controlling agency to provide farm credit at low interest rates.

Delegates express their strong conviction that the United Nations must achieve victory at any cost and to that end demanded the effective total utilization and proper allocation for war, by compulsion where necessary, of all the resources of Canada, including agriculture, industry and finance, as well as manpower, such utilization to achieve so far as human means can achieve it, an equality of sacrifice.

Sweeping to within 16 votes of a majority over all candidates on the first ballot, Mr. Bracken reached that objective by a wide margin on the second count. The ballots cast for the three candidates remaining in the race were not officially announced.

Immediately Maj. Murdo MacPherson and John Diefenbaker moved that the election be made unanimous and joint chairmen H. R. Milner, K. C., of Edmonton, and Ivan Sabourin declared John Bracken so elected.

NAME IS SETTLED

Following Mr. Bracken's speech of acceptance of the leadership the stormy question of Thursday's session was brought before the meeting. Gone was the rancor of the previous day, and after Lt.-Col. Alan Cockeram, Toronto, who led the fight against the name change before nomination, asked that he be "now associated with the motion to have the name changed to the Progressive Conservative Party." The delegates called loudly for the question and without a dissenting vote passed the motion.

The ready acceptance of the change in name by delegates strongly opposed to its adoption at the Thursday session was taken to indicate that they were prepared to co-operate to the limit of the appeal made by their leader for assistance in the working out of a program for the future which will give to the youth of the country, the middle aged and the very old, of every creed and economic group, ample justifica-

8th Army May Have Started Its Offensive

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE

LONDON, Dec. 12—(BUP)—Britain's Eighth Army appeared to be on the move at El Agheila today but in Tunisia the Allies waged a grim fight to hold strong defence positions while supplies, men and planes for the big attack were brought up to the forward area.

Reports from Cairo revealed little of the Eighth Army's movements but Axis broadcasts frankly told of a thrust into Cyrenaica by a British armored force.

Observers who have been expecting word of the El Agheila action any day believed that the push forward may now be getting under way and there was increasing belief in British quarters that Marshal Erwin Rommel shortly will be on the march westward again.

BATTLE NOT EXPECTED

While there was still no definite indication that Rommel will decline to stand and fight at El Agheila, military circles thought it unlikely that the Nazis would make more than a token stand in their positions on the Gulf of Sirte.

They pointed out that Rommel naturally had held at El Agheila

No Government Obstacles To Block Bracken Election Declares Prime Minister

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King made clear in a statement last night that the government would place no obstacle in the way of Conservative leader Bracken's entry into the House of Commons.

"It will, of course, be necessary for Mr. Bracken to be duly elected to the House of Commons before he becomes the leader of the official opposition," said Mr. King.

"While not wishing to interfere in any way with the rights of the electors of any constituency to select candidates of their own choice in any by-election, I might say that the government would not be disposed, because of the necessary procedure, to delay in any way Mr. Bracken's possible entry into the house."

Mr. King said he thought it "would be well" to reserve any comment of Mr. Bracken's election or the other proceedings of the Conservative convention in Winni

Allies Raid Italy From Two Sides

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS

LONDON, Dec. 12—(BUP)—One of the biggest fleets of British bombing and fighting planes seen in months roared over to occupied France in daylight today soon after Allied planes made the third attack in a week on Turin and a second great attack on Naples.

Watchers along the southeast coast saw fleets of great bombing planes cross to enemy occupied territory along with swarms of protecting fighters.

A small force of Britain-based bombers had just fought through 600 miles of bad weather and enemy gunfire to make the 39th attack on Turin, centre of Italian war industry, raining bombs of all weights on the still-smouldering ruins of factories wrecked in raids Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

NAPLES HIT HEAVILY

The Middle Eastern command announced at Cairo that Allied planes —possibly American Army B-24 Consolidated Liberators which made the last raid there a week ago—had blasted Naples yesterday.

New Russian Attack Breaks German Lines

By M. S. HANDLER

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—A powerful new Russian attack has smashed through German defence lines west of Rzhev with gathering momentum, front dispatches reported today.

New gains in the Stalingrad area tightened the Soviet circle around the Nazi siege army.

The German high command admitted that a large-scale Soviet offensive had been launched with "fresh troops" on the front south of Rzhev. The Nazis claimed they had beaten off the attack which was said to have had unusually strong infantry and tank support.

Front dispatches said the Red army stormed across a water barrier and broke through the first German lines of defence in heavy fighting.

WEATHER CLEARING

Weather conditions which have hampered operations on the central front were said to be clearing up, enabling low flying Stormovik attack planes to carry out large-scale attacks on Nazi positions and troop concentrations.

German counter-attacks in the Veliki-Luki sector, said the dis-

Caucus Discusses House Leadership

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12—(CP)—Leadership of the Conservative opposition in the House of Commons was under discussion this morning at a caucus of Conservative senators and House of Commons members at which Premier John Bracken, newly-elected leader, was present.

It was understood that Hon. R. B. Hanson of Fredericton, N.B., who has been opposition leader in the house since 1940, is asked to relinquish his office, owing to indifferent health.

Prominently mentioned as successors to Mr. Hanson as opposition leader were John G. Diefenbaker, member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., and Howard C. Green, member of parliament for Vancouver South.

It was believed a decision on the successor to Mr. Hanson will be reached this morning.

Jap Assaults Fail to Break Allies' Trap

By BRYDON C. TAVES

UNITED NATIONS' HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Dec. 12—(BUP)—Australian and American troops have trapped a strong Japanese force five miles from Buna on the north New Guinea coast and have repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy a series of desperate attempts by the entrapped forces to break through to safety, advices from the front said today.

A mixed Australian-American column, moving on Buna along the main inland trail met resistance by a big force of enemy troops about five miles from Buna and 2½ miles from Sanananda, up the coast. The Allied troops fanned out on both sides of the trail into the jungle and thrusting in behind the Japanese, established positions between the enemy and Sananada.

Yesterday the enemy troops realized their danger and tried to break through to safety. They attacked again and again, only to be beaten back.

"Southwards of Sananada the enemy repeatedly counter-attacked but was bloodily repulsed," a communique reported today.

The communique also noted that in the Buna area proper, Allied field guns and mortars, including the new 4-inch (105 millimetre) guns' had silenced enemy anti-aircraft and machine gun positions.

Allied Planes Batter Italy From 2 Sides

ant vessels. Fires and explosions resulted along the entire waterfront.

Liberators made the first attack on Naples a week ago yesterday, blasting an Italian naval squadron and opening the promised Allied offensive against Southern Italy, and Italy admitted that in addition to great material damage 139 persons had been killed and 358 wounded.

MAY BE RECORD RAID

It looked as if today's raids by British-based Allied planes might assume record proportions.

"The roar of planes nearly lifted the roof off my hotel," Jack Chilvers, proprietor of a southeast coast hotel, reported. "It was easily the biggest force I have seen pass over since the war started. They were crossing for more than an hour."

British United Press watchers reported the formations of bombers and fighters crossed the Dover Strait at great height in brilliant sunshine.

Later another big force of bombers and fighters returned to the English coast from the direction of Abbeville in northwest France.

GREAT DAMAGE

Though the Turin raiding force was comparatively small, it was believed it did great damage to one of Italy's chief war industry centres, raining demolition and incendiary bombs up to 8,000-pound triple block-busters through gaps in the clouds, on targets of all sorts.

Three planes were reported missing — probably all, it was indicated, as a result of bad weather rather than of enemy gunfire.

An authorized informant said that soon after the planes crossed the English Channel they met very bad weather. They fought through dense clouds, rising to 20,000 feet, and temperatures which caused severe icing.

SWISS VILLAGES HIT

Switzerland said officially that foreign planes, presumably part of the raiding force, had dropped incendiary bombs on, at least three Swiss villages, two in the Valais canton about 25 miles from the Italian frontier and one in northern Switzerland, in Aargu canton, about 25 miles from Germany.

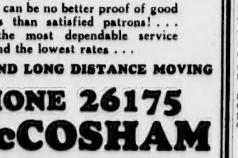

(It was not known whether the bombs were dropped on the Aarga canton village meant that some British planes had bombed Germany.)

Swiss reports said the incendiary bombs had done some damage to buildings.

King Will Not Block Election Of Tory Leader

peg until Mr. Bracken has been elected to parliament and duly installed as opposition leader.

"Knowing something of the responsibilities and burdens inseparable from leadership of a political party, especially in these times, Mr. Bracken is to be congratulated upon having received the marked expression of confidence from the representatives of the party he is to lead.

"I, personally, hope that he may be afforded the health and strength so greatly needed in the discharge of the duties and responsibilities of the wider arena of public affairs he has entered today."

Here is the text of Mr. King's statement:

"I think it would be as well were I to reserve any comment I may have to make upon the proceedings of the Winnipeg convention and the convention's choice of Mr. Bracken as leader of the Conservative Party until such time as Mr. Bracken has been elected to the House of Commons and been duly installed as leader of the opposition.

"Knowing something of the responsibilities and burdens inseparable from leadership of a political party, especially in these times, Mr. Bracken is to be congratulated upon having received so marked an expression of confidence from the representatives of the party he is to lead.

"I, personally, hope that he may be afforded the health and strength so greatly needed in the discharge of the duties and responsibilities of the wider arena of public affairs he has entered today.

MUST BE ELECTED

"It will, of course, be necessary for Mr. Bracken to be duly elected to the House of Commons before he becomes the leader of the official opposition.

"While not wishing to interfere in any way with the rights of the electors of any constituency to select candidates of their own choice in any by-election, I might say that the government would not be disposed, because of the necessary procedure, to delay in any way Mr. Bracken's possible entry into the house."

Meanwhile, the election of Mr. Bracken and the alteration of the party's name to "Progressive-Conservative" was the chief topic of conversation in Ottawa last night.

Speculation arose at once over the possibilities of his early appearance in the House of Commons as leader of the official opposition.

Mr. King could facilitate Mr. Bracken's election by calling an immediate by-election in Selkirk which has been vacant since the resignation of Hon. T. Thorson, former war services minister, who was appointed president of the exchequer court of Canada.

Election of Mr. Bracken to succeed Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as leader of the old Conservative party was generally expected by observers here and Selkirk is the riding most frequently mentioned as scene of his candidacy for a seat in parliament.

A year ago, when Mr. Meighen was selected national leader, a seat was opened for him by resignation of Col. Alan Ashton, Conservative member for York South.

DEFEATED BY C.C.F.

The Liberal party did not contest the seat but Mr. Meighen was defeated by J. W. Noseworthy, C.C.F. candidate.

That riding, in the 1940 general elections, had given Col. Cockeram 15,346 votes to 12,864 for the Liberal candidate and 5,372 to the C.C.F.

Selkirk, in the last general election, gave Mr. Thorson 13,023 votes over 6,869 for the C.C.F. candidate and 3,899 for the National Government candidate. Mr. Thorson ran as a Liberal-Progressive.

tion for a militant faith in the party's platform.

While waiting for the balloting to commence delegates indulged in community singing starting with the traditional convention song, "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here" and during an interlude the delegates from Alberta struck up "Home On the Range", the whole assembly joining them.

WELCOME FOR GREEN

A tumultous welcome was given Howard Green, M.P. Vancouver South, when he withdrew from the race at the conclusion of the first ballot, for which there is no strong sense of duty in so soon resuming his duties at the convention after having struck up in the sudden illness that prevented him completing his nomination speech.

The new leader asked the delegates to assist him develop a sane progressive body of political thought, for which there is urgent need, to be ready to undertake the difficult task of government if not during the war, in the less tragic but equally difficult days of peace that lie ahead.

"There is no one individual in our domestic system today who can fill the prophetic role of a Moses, no matter what his talents or the degree of the industry he brings to the task. I am confident that a group of men working for a common aim, drawing upon the accumulated wisdom about us, can, by co-operation, achieve great things." Mr. Bracken stated as he appealed for co-operation from the rank and file of the people of goodwill throughout the Dominion.

PROGRAM FOR FUTURE

Deprecating the departure from parliamentary procedure which has been taken place during the past three years, Mr. Bracken said, "that the very institutions our young men are fighting for are being stultified before our eyes. To some degree that may be necessary, but it is the right of every Canadian to see that the supremacy of parliament is not denied and that it be re-established and protected at the earliest possible time."

"As for myself I want to work out such a program for the future as will give to the youth of this country, as well as to the middle aged and to the old of every creed and economic group, ample justification for a militant faith in what we stand for today," he stated.

"I want team work in doing it, team play from the grand fellows who contested the nomination with me, team play from the officers of this organization, and from the rank and file of the Canadian people, and team play from the best special trained brains of this country upon which we must draw, if from out of the complex structure of our economy we are to arrive at wise rational policies that will be best for the general good."

ASKS UNITED CANADA

"I want to build a united Canada. I want to help get Canada back to the unity MacDonald and Cartier gave it in the beginning and Laurier so well maintained. I want to try and arrest the trend towards separation so dangerous to Confederation."

"I believe that if our democracy is to survive, it can only survive on the basis of the acceptance of domestic decisions. Yet I believe also that in a country so filled with minorities as Canada, that the basic rights of minorities must be fully guarded. On basic fundamental matters, majorities must have the right of decision, but within that there must be a place for tolerance and justice without which the accommodation process is impossible."

Mr. Bracken said there was need in Canada for a rational long-time program, national in scope, progressive in character, and in every degree worthy of the sacrifice this generation of young men is making in order the democracy may be preserved, to build a society worthy of their sacrifice, a society that will be "the best monument we at home can build to their memory."

AGRICULTURAL POLICY

"My actions shall be guided by the right of every man to have a job; every worker a fair day's pay for a fair day's work; every individual to reward on the basis of equal pay for all but on basis which recognizes the value of the service given," Mr. Bracken declared.

"I believe in the right of farmers and other primary producers to a fair share of the nation's income, and I would not be standing on this platform tonight if a new deal for agriculture had not been written to this organization's platform," Mr. Bracken stated. "I believe also in the right of private enterprise to a fair return for service rendered.

"Every child and youth should have the right to equal opportunity to the maximum education suited to its capacity that the state can provide," he declared, "and every individual the right to security against loss of income arising from accident, sickness, loss of employment, old age and other disability.

PUBLIC'S RIGHT

"I hold with the right of the public to expect efficient administration of the funds it entrusted to the management of the state, and a recognition by the public of the right of the state to exact by a fair system of taxation the funds necessary to meet the services required of the state," Mr. Bracken stated. "The people have the right to expect from their leaders a determined effort to disencumber society from the barriers to world trade, world progress and world peace; and "I believe leaders have the right to expect from the public something more than passive support in getting them removed."

BRACKEN OUTLINES HIS OBJECTIVES

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—(CP)—These are the objectives for which Hon. John Bracken, newly-elected Progressive Conservative leader, stands as outlined by him in accepting leadership at the national convention.

1. The right of every man to have a job.

2. The right of every worker to a fair day's pay for a fair day's work.

3. The right of every individual to be rewarded not on the basis of equal pay for all but on a basis which recognizes the value of the service given.

4. The right of farmers and other primary producers to a fair share of the nation's income.

5. The right of both public and private enterprise to a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

6. The right of private enterprise to a fair return on the investment it risks.

7. The right of every child and youth to equal opportunity to the maximum education suited to its capacity that the state can provide.

8. The right of every citizen to security against loss of income arising from accident, sickness, loss of employment, old age and other disability.

9. The right of depressed provinces to a rationalization of Dominion-Provincial financial relations.

10. The right of the public to expect efficient administration of the funds it entrusts to the management of the state.

11. A recognition by the public of the right of the state to exact by a fair system of taxation the funds necessary to meet the services required of the state.

12. The right of future generations to a world of plenty.

13. The right of future generations to a world of peace.

14. The right of the people to expect from their leaders a determined effort to disencumber society from the barriers to world trade, world progress and world peace; and the right of their leaders to expect from the public something more than passive support in getting them removed.

Sir William Says Prayers Answered

LONDON, Dec. 12.—(CP Cable)—Sir William Dobbie, former governor of Malta, told a Battersea audience the remarkable change in the war picture following the North African successes was the answer to a national day of prayer last September.

"In September the King appointed a day of prayer on which the nation was invited to seek God's help," he said. "It followed a grim time of mishaps and troubles of all sorts. God, I think, heard us. We are seeing his answer today."

because the British have not been pressing him. Now, however, with the Eighth Army's forward bases prepared for the big attack he is reported to hold an inferior position.

These sources said Rommel would invite catastrophe if he fought a full battle at El Agheila and lost the remainder of his strength. However, it was admitted that Adolf Hitler might give his commander such orders, simply as a matter of prestige.

ROMMEL'S BEST MOVE

From the military standpoint, it was said, Rommel's best move would be to push on west while fighting a strong rearguard action and make a new stand at some point like Misurata where he would be adjacent to his main supplies at Tripoli while the Eighth Army would face the arduous task of again bringing up all their equipment, guns and men across hundreds of miles of desert.

An Italian broadcast disclosed that the big Italian population of Axis-held Tunisian areas was being drafted to bolster the German and Italian forces.

Before the war, there were about 50,000 Italians in Tunis alone, most of them men who had undergone compulsory military training in Italy.

Governor-General Is Not Required Declares Lawyer

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Philippe Perland, a Montreal solicitor, addressing a Ligue Pour La Defense du Canada rally marking the 11th anniversary of the passing of the Statute of Westminster, said last night "there is no reason for our having a governor-general, representing the King. The governor-general is no longer a governor, nor a general."

He added if this post must be filled it should be filled by a Canadian. Mr. Perland said Canadians should realize Canada's only tie with the British Empire was her allegiance to a symbol, the British crown.

He joined with a heavy roster of speakers in urging that Canadians should not be content with national independence provided for in the statute.

S. Africa Army May See Action Off Continent

CAPE TOWN, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts today ruled out the possibility of conscription for military service but announced his intention of asking parliament to approve sending South African troops out of Africa.

"When the task of cleaning up Africa is completed, I am certain our boys of the 1st and 2nd Divisions—of the whole army—will say 'Onward'," the prime minister declared.

"This, of course, will be voluntary. I stand by that principle. None will be compelled to go out of Africa, even out of the Union."

Envoy Mistaken For Nazi Seaman Has Close Call

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The Ottawa Citizen reported yesterday that a member of the foreign diplomatic corps here was almost taken into custody yesterday after two men had mistaken him for Siegfried Schmidt, one of seven Nazi airmen who escaped from an internment camp near Gravenhurst, Ont., this week. He was released when he produced a pad with a telephone number written on it. After a call was put through to a legation, a member hurried over and identified the man as one of its staff.

Patrols Find Nazis Jittery At El Agheila

CAIRO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—British "swan patrols" feeling out the strength of Marshal Erwin Rommel's powerful fortifications at El Agheila in Libya have come back with the diagnosis that a "state of nervousness" exists among the Axis troops there.

This state of nerves was marked, they said, by shooting at nothing at night and sending up flares without much reason.

Swan patrols include tanks, armored cars, trucks filled with infantry and even some artillery especially equipped for crossing more solid stretches of the salt marshes which provide much of El Agheila's natural defensive strength.

The various elements of a patrol fan out like swans on a lake, but can come together quickly if the exigencies of operation require it.

Taxes in November Trebled Over 1941

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Canadians paid nearly three times as much in income taxes in November as they did in the same month a year ago, Revenue Minister Gibson announced here yesterday. Collections totalled $100,186,480, compared with $33,810,953 in November, 1941, an increase of $66,375,546.

Collections for the eight-month period ended Nov. 30, were $911,-981,491, against $414,424,375 in the same period last year.

Statements Ruled Evidence by Court

QUEBEC, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Verbal and written declarations made by Capt. Georges Antoine Grondin in the presence of his superior officers were accepted as evidence yesterday by a general court martial over the objections of defence counsel. Antoine Rivard, who claimed that the declarations were not made freely and voluntarily.

The court, trying Capt. Grondin on a charge of cowardice in the face while in the performance of his military duties, had read the written declaration which the accused said he divided $780 with Maj. Ludovic Lavellee and $120 with Maj. J. E. Guimont, both of whom have yet to face the court set up to try five officers and four other ranks on charges of irregularities in the medical examination of prospective army recruits.

CRIES OF PEACE ARE HEARD IN GENOA STREETS

DIO DE JANIERO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Terrified Italians running through Genoa's streets shouted "We want peace" after a recent devastating R.A.F. raid on that Italian port city, a group of Swiss seamen said upon their arrival here yesterday. They said their ship was supposed to sail from Genoa the night the R.A.F. struck, but was delayed several days because of damage to the port.

The seamen said the Italian population is "most anxious to quit the war."

Unshackling Of Prisoners Carried Out

OTTAWA, Dec. 12—(CP)—Handcuffing of a limited number of German prisoners of war, a policy adopted last Oct. 10 as reprisal against similar action taken by Germany, ended officially this morning.

Defence headquarters told questioners that the order issued by the government Thursday that there should be no shackling on or after Dec. 12, had been carried out.

Actually the unshackling took place last evening since it had been the policy to place irons on those selected for this treatment only during the daytime routine.

An undisclosed number of German prisoners of war were placed in irons last Oct. 10 after Germany announced that Canadian and British prisoners captured at Dieppe had been shackled and refused to abandon that policy when warned by Canada and Britain that reprisals against an equivalent number of Nazi prisoners of war would be adopted unless the fetters were removed from British prisoners.

The German announced last October that they had shackled 1,268 men and 107 officers captured at Dieppe.

patches, were beaten off and encircled Nazi garrisons were destroyed.

On the Stalingrad front Russian forces on the west bank of the Don northwest of the city and southwest of the city were drawing the noose around the German even tighter.

Russian spearheads were entering German positions in the Kalach sector along the Stalingrad-Kharkov railroad and were believed to be so strongly entrenched that German forces to the east will find it impossible to break out.

Destruction of 60 German transports in a single day was regarded as an indication of the great-scale efforts of the Germans to supply their troops by air due to the closing of land supply routes.

Observers were unwilling to predict the outcome of the German attempts to break the trap but it was believed that their chances were steadily diminishing.

Within Stalingrad itself heavy fighting was reported on the southern outskirts and in the northern factory district.

Corvette Saves 194 Aboard Torpedoed Canadian Vessel

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—The Canadian corvette Morden has brought safely to port 194 men, women and children rescued from a Canadian merchantman torpedoed in the Atlantic, the navy announced last night in a press release which told how the corvette crew pitched in to help the survivors—even to meeting requests for baby diapers, safety pins and tasty chicken sandwiches.

The announcement said without further identification that the survivors had been landed at a "western Atlantic port." The 194—the entire ship's company—included 59 passengers, of whom 36 were women, 14 children and nine men. The youngest was a seven-months-old baby; the oldest was 83.

All were transferred at sea from the sinking ship to the corvette and a check-up showed only two casualties—one passenger suffering from shock and a diabetic in need of insulin.

Thus was recorded another stirring chapter in the history of Canada's growing naval forces—a chapter which brought congratulations from both the navy and the merchant marine to the corvette captain, J. J. Hodgkinson, R.C.N.R., of Montreal, and his resourceful crew.

STRUCK AT DUSK

The U-boat struck at dusk. But let the master of the merchantman, who remains unidentified for security reasons, tell the story of the sinking:

"The torpedo struck the ship on the starboard quarter. The steering gear was damaged and the after hold immediately filled, causing the ship to sink rapidly by the stern. I stopped both engines, made signals that I had been torpedoed and waited for reports from the chief officer and the chief engineer.

"The chief officer reported the damage to the starboard quarter, and the chief engineer said that the propeller shaft tunnel was flooded and that water was leaking into the engine room.

"In view of the chief engineer's opinion that the engine room was flooding, of the fact that a great proportion of the passengers consisted of elderly men and women and several small children; and considering the condition of the weather, I decided to remove the passengers to a place of safety.

"I gave the order 'abandon ship.' The operation was effected without a hitch. There was no indication of any panic or alarm amongst the passengers and we got them all away without any accidents."

The moonlit seas were calm as they began to abandon ship but as the lifeboats pulled away the wind developed into a fresh breeze with a considerable sea running and a heavy swell.

By the time the Morden, which has steamed up in answer to the stricken vessel's signal, began to pick up the passengers from the lifeboats, the sea was worse. The tricky job went on for more than an hour but was accomplished without mishap.

First to go aboard the corvette was seven-months-old Susan Alexander. The infant was passed in a bundle and landed in the arms of Able Seaman Eugene Bruehu of Montreal. "I didn't know at first that the bundle had a baby in it," Bruehu said later. "Then the bundle, she cried. I handed it to one of the other hands and he took it down to the wardroom."

OLDEST PASSENGER

Second person to be transferred to the Morden was the oldest of the merchantman's passengers, an 83-year-old woman who was lifted to the deck into the arms of Stoker Petty Officer Harvey A. McLeod of Verdun Que., and planted a kiss on his grimy cheek.

The navy men cut up the ship's towels to make the baby's napkins and turned pop bottles into feeding bottles.

For a wonder, the corvette's food held out, with stew as the steady diet for the adults. But when the vessel reached port there was only 20 pounds of meat left.

"Our men gave up their quarters," said Lieut. G. W. Haslam, R.C.N.V.R. of Toronto and St. John's, Nfld., the Morden's executive officer. "They slung their hammocks wherever they could find space, in passage ways and all over the place. There were 66 from the torpedoed ship in the stoker's mess.

This is what one of the passengers had to say:

"It was a great display of seamanship by the merchant navy and the Canadian navy alike. The crew of our ship got away every boat without a hitch and the corvette's crew shared everything with us, including their clothing. They were great."

Bracken Move Severs Bonds With Liberals

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Matthew R. Sutherland, president of the Manitoba Liberal Association, said last night that Premier Bracken "has now severed his connection with liberal and progressive thinking people and joined the ranks of the party which, despite its apparent change of front, has always been reactionary and still is."

The premier, leader of the Manitoba government for the past 20 years, yesterday was elected leader of the National Conservative party.

Mr. Sutherland, who is member of the provincial legislature for Lansdowne, in a prepared statement, said the executive of the Manitoba Liberal Association met yesterday afternoon to discuss the situation created by Mr. Bracken's election.

His statement follows:

The executive was surprised that Mr. Bracken has decided to embark on a new career as leader of the Conservative Party of Canada. Because of old association we offer him personally our regards.

Mr. Bracken has now severed his connection with Liberal and progressive thinking people and joined the ranks of the party which, despite its apparent changes of front, has always been reactionary and still is.

The Liberal and progressive tradition of Manitoba with its record of accomplishment and good government will continue to move forward.

The appointment of a provincial leader is a matter of genuine interest to all the people of Manitoba. This will be attended to in a thoroughly democratic and open manner and for the purpose of assuring to our people the continuance of efficient and forward-looking government.

Text of Conservative Resolution on Labor

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Following is the text of the Conservative Party policy on labor relations, as finally adopted at the party convention yesterday:

In order that free enterprise may be retained as the economic system best calculated to provide stability, prosperity and security and as a necessary part of that system that freedom of association and organization may be guaranteed to workers and in order that confidence may be restored between industry and labor and that sound labor relations may be established, this committee recommends:

1—Uniform labor relations shall be established throughout the Dominion by Dominion-provincial agreements, appropriate legislation, or by vesting jurisdiction in industrial labor matters in the Dominion.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

2—Collective bargaining is desirable and necessary in the interests of labor, industry and the social welfare of the people.

3—Workers shall have full freedom of association, organization and designation of representatives of their own choosing for the purpose of negotiating the terms and conditions of their employment and, when requested, employers shall be required to bargain collectively with their employees.

4—Discrimination against any employee or prospective employee on account of his activities in respect of any labor organization shall be prohibited.

5—Well-defined machinery shall be established for the election and certification of the agency which is to be entitled to represent employees in collective bargaining negotiations where there is a dispute as to the collective bargaining agency.

CONCILIATION SERVICE

6—The department of labor shall establish a comprehensive conciliation service for the prompt conciliation of disputes.

7—National labor relations board with equal employer and employee representation and a chairman representing the public interest shall be created, such board to be judicial in its functions leading to the establishment of a well-recognized labor jurisprudence.

8—Industrial disputes which cannot be conciliated or otherwise settled, shall be referred for decision and report to the national labor relations board whose hearings shall be public.

9—The National Labor Relations Board, upon complaint received or on its own volition, shall have power to investigate any labor organization or employers' association to ensure that its activities are not prejudicial to the interests of its members and do not interfere with the democratic right of free men to work, and that they are not prejudicial to the national interest, and that coercion or domination of any labor organization does not exist.

FEDERAL REPRESENTATION

10—Labor shall be accorded representation upon governmental boards and commissions which deal directly or indirectly with matters concerning the interests or welfare of workers.

11—Governmental encouragement and assistance should be given to the establishment of labor - management production committees in the interest of maximum war production and permanently sound labor relations.

12—Adequate holidays with pay shall be granted to employees when applicable.

Bracken Says Successor to Be Duly Named

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Premier John Bracken of Manitoba, newly-elected leader of the Conservative Party, said in the prepared text of his speech of acceptance to the Conservative National convention yesterday that a leader of the Manitoba government to succeed him would be chosen by "democratic process in due course."

Mr. Bracken said he himself would recommend to the lieutenant-governor, Hon. R. F. McWilliams, the name of the man suggested as his successor.

TO QUIT PREMIERSHIP

In delivering his speech yesterday afternoon to the Conservative convention, the Manitoba premier did not read the reference to his retirement from the Manitoba premiership, but it appeared in the prepared text of his speech made available to the press.

With Mr. Bracken chosen as national leader, Conservative Party spokesmen said the next problem will be to find a seat for him in the house of commons.

Selkirk, a Manitoba riding, already is vacant as a result of the recent appointment of Hon. J. T. Thorson, former minister of war services, to the presidency of the exchequer court.

While Mr. Thorson, as a Liberal candidate, carried Selkirk in the 1935 and 1940 federal elections, the constituency elected J. H. Stitt, a Conservative, in 1930.

The only Conservative member of the House of Commons from Manitoba is Lt.-Col. Arthur Ross, who represents Souris constituency. It was reported that Col. Ross would be ready to open a seat for Mr. Bracken if the new leader does not run in Selkirk.

ACCLAMATION UNLIKELY

There was little likelihood, however, of Mr. Bracken obtaining an acclamation in any Manitoba by-election. It was definite that the C.C.F. would contest any seat to which Mr. Bracken would seek election.

Earlier in the week, a statement from the C.C.F. said:

"If Mr. Bracken accepts the leadership of the Conservative party and seeks a seat in the Federal house, he . . . will find the C.C.F. standing in his way."

Manitoba's representation in the House of Commons yesterday shows 15 Liberals and one C.C.F. with Col. Ross the lone Conservative.

Selection of a leader for the Manitoba Coalition government offered many possibilities for comment.

Hon. Stuart Garson, Manitoba treasurer, was the man most prominently mentioned as Mr. Bracken's successor. He entered the Manitoba house in 1927 as a Progressive, and is known as Mr. Bracken's chief lieutenant in the cabinet. He is 44 years old.

The possibility of Hon. Errick Willis, provincial Conservative leader, and minister of public works in the Coalition cabinet, being called to the premiership was not overlooked.

LAWYER-FARMER

Mr. Willis is a lawyer-farmer. He operates a large scale farm and takes an active part in its management.

Others prominently mentioned as a possible successor are Hon. James McLenaghen, attorney-general, and Conservative member of the Coalition; Hon. Douglas L. Campbell, minister of agriculture, and a Liberal-Progressive, and Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, minister of mines. Mr. McDiarmid is also a Liberal-Progressive, a veteran member of the coalition.

Mr. Bracken

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba won the five-man contest for the leadership of the Conservative party—into the wordy battle to change the party name.

His election is the result of the office seeking the man rather than the man the office. How urgently he was sought is shown by the fact that such well known Conservatives as Hon. H. H. Stevens, Maj. M. A. MacPherson, Howard Green and John G. Diefenbaker were rejected and the honor given to Mr. Bracken.

The new leader has never been known as a Conservative. He entered politics in Manitoba in 1922, when he was elected as a Liberal-Progressive. He has been premier of the province through the intervening years, and while his cabinet has been repeatedly reorganized on coalition lines there has been no announced change of political badge or convictions on the part of the premier.

In the negotiations which led up to his candidature, Mr. Bracken stood out for prefixing "Progressive" to the name of the party he now heads. In the end he succeeded in getting this concession. The inference is that traditional Conservatism is to be wavered, if he can bring that about, by progressive impulse.

It is a high position to which Mr. Bracken is thus called, one which will give him wide opportunity to serve the country. That he will discharge his duties with sincere purpose is not to be doubted, and all must hope that he will be able to do so with success.

V

The Reserve Army

The current campaign of the Edmonton Fusiliers Reserve Battalion to recruit its ranks to full strength brings sharply to the public attention the important part being played by the Reserve Army in the defence of this Dominion.

At the beginning of the war, the militia regiments were regarded largely as recruiting fields for the Active Army. They provided a preliminary training for men who did not feel that they were able to volunteer for overseas at that particular moment but who desired military training with that eventual end in mind.

As a result of this view, the training given in the militia units tended to be of an excessively preparatory nature.

All this has been radically changed.

Out of the experience of three years of war has emerged a new idea of the function of the Reserve Army. It is no longer a mere feeder of the Active Army. It is a highly vital part of Canada's defence structure with a well-defined purpose and duty of its own.

The function of the Reserve Army is primarily to defend Canada in case of invasion. It is an active service force.

With this change in its function, its training policy has been enlarged. Instruction, instead of being largely rudimentary and preparatory, is now complete.

The man who joins the Reserve Army today is just as fully trained to meet belligerent conditions on Canadian soil as his brother in the Active Army is trained to meet belligerent conditions abroad.

The Reserve Army is a vital part in Canada's war machine. It is the duty of all those who are able to join it to do so.

The Winnipeg Platform

The influence of the Port Hope conference is observable in the main resolutions adopted at the Conservative convention at Winnipeg.

There were of course the usual stage-trimming motions, such as that which declared Canada should stay in the British Empire. Since nobody is proposing to take it out, this signifies nothing save all-round agreement that what is ought to be. There were also, as usual at such gatherings, a raft of minor resolutions too numerous to be listed in a party platform intended to fix itself in the public mind.

One of the basic propositions approved is that farm prices should be set on a parity level, considering cost of production and the prices of things farmers have to buy. In particular it was resolved that the price of wheat to outside consumers should be $1.10 per bushel, and for consumption in Canada $1.25 per bushel. Whatever it signifies, there was strong opposition to this platform plank from delegates coming from the eastern provinces.

The convention pledged the party to the ideal of social security, apparently without dissent from any quarter. As all the other parties have already declared for the same objective, it should be easily possible to implement at the coming session of parliament the security program which the Prime Minister outlined in an address some weeks ago, and which Hon. Ian Mackenzie has since discussed in some detail. Since the political groups are unanimous, there is no reason for delay.

The idea that there should be a credit agency in the nature of a farm bank to provide farm credit at low interest rates is not new, but it is good. Banks of that kind operate in other countries, and have long done so, with marked success. Such an institution, with successful farmers on the directorate, would isolate one troublesome part of the credit problem and promise fewer farm-debt crises in future.

The convention declared for the employment of all Canada's armed forces wherever they may be required; and for "compulsion if necessary" to put all the resources of the country, including agriculture, industry, finance and manpower into the war effort. This is definite, but it does not involve any drastic departure from present policy. The Government at last session took power to send any and all the armed forces to any theatre; while "negative compulsion" in industrial and economic matters is visibly verging toward the positive type.

The impression given by these main resolutions is that they originated with the western delegates; as all the candidates for party leadership were western men. Whether the Old Guard will bow to this attempt of the western wing to dominate the party, and how far the solid massed of eastern Conservatives will rally to the new slogans, remain to be seen. At least it can be said the policy has one feature conspicuously lacking in that adopted at the Ottawa convention. It looks more to the future than to the traditions.

It is announced that, by arrangement between General Eisenhower and Admiral Darlan, the Allies will be allowed to use the port and airfied at Dakar, while Allied sailors and ships held there are to be released. In the absence of information it is rather to be inferred that General Eisenhower got three of the shilly-shallying and read the riot act to the Admiral. If necessary he might read it again and demand that the French warships and merchant vessels at Dakar be placed unreservedly on the Allied side. If Darlan is fighting for France he wouldn't refuse. And as he needs lease-lend equipment for his North African army he couldn't refuse if he wanted to.

Ruml Plan Gaining Increasing Support in Canada

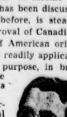

Places Payment of Income Tax on Real Rational Basis

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The Ruml Plan of income tax payment, which has been discussed in this column before, is steadily winning the approval of Canadians.

This plan is of American origin, but is seen to be readily applicable to Canada. Its purpose, in brief, is to shift income tax payers to a current basis.

For the purpose of practical application, suppose we take the case of an average worker. Say he is a mechanic.

Harold L. Weir

Before the war he did reasonably well but as he was not continuously employed, his savings were slender. In the last few years, however, he has been working regularly and earns about $180 a month. As he has no dependents he has spent freely. Now he is paying an income tax of $42.06 a month.

He understands vaguely that this is only 90 per cent of what he actually owes.

But what he doesn't fully realize is that while this tax is deducted each month, it is in effect only a payment on what he earned eight months ago. In other words, he is eight months in debt to the Government.

Like this man, we all owe eight months' taxes. As long as our incomes are maintained, this debt may hang heavily on our minds. If we stop working, however, we must go on paying until the debt is discharged.

Such a situation is bound to create disturbances in times of decreased employment or falling wages.

Deferred Payments

In this country, we have been accustomed to paying one year's taxes out of the following year's income.

So long as such taxes were paid principally by those with assured and higher incomes these delayed payments were possible of collection. Some bad debts were incurred, but the system worked.

Now, however, hundreds of thousands more people are paying income taxes and rates have reached levels where the old method of delayed payments does not meet requirements.

Taxes are now being levied on people whose expenditures will legally equal their incomes. To assure collection, such taxes must be snared at the source at the time the income is earned.

Any attempt to collect twelve months' taxes at one fell swoop would be impractical. Consequently, Ottawa is now taxing us monthly or in special cases, quarterly. But the tax which is deducted from our monthly incomes is not a tax on that particular month's income but rather on income which was earned in the past.

In most cases, what we pay in November is really a tax on our income of last March.

The Ruml Plan would have the Government call the deduction what it is—a tax on November's earnings.

At first sight, it may appear as though Ottawa would lose revenue if it gave up its claim on taxes for the period January-August, 1942. Yet this claim can only be enforced against current incomes. It cannot be paid out of the income on which it falls.

That income has been spent. In 1945 the average man paid his 1941 income tax and will pay four months of his 1942 tax. In addition, he will still owe eight months on his 1942 tax.

If the Government attempted to collect all this in 1942, wholesale individual bankruptcies would result.

Shrunken Incomes

So long as our incomes are maintained and the Government does not demand payment, this eight months' debt remains nebulous, but for those whose incomes shrinks, and for those who are forced to stop work, the spectre of those eight months' "arrears" may take on a terrifying aspect.

If a man retires on pension, for instance, his income tax on the previous salary may absorb all his pension for many months. Or if a taxpayer dies his estate must meet income tax even it there is no income.

Suppose, further, a workman falls ill in January, 1943, and remains incapacitated for six months. Naturally his earnings in 1943 will be considerably smaller, but his income tax payments in the full year 1943 will be as large as if he had worked the entire 12 months.

In fact, from September on there will be deducted from his pay envelope an income tax for 1943 on income which he had not received due to his absence from the job during January to June.

The muddle which will result from deducting income taxes monthly, with the implications that they are taxes on current income, but actually crediting them against income assumed to be earned in previous months, is a situation which the Ruml Plan would correct.

Unemployment

The Government claim for taxes on income earned eight months ago does not affect those with stabilized incomes, but it falls with a disastrous thud on people who are unfortunate enough to experience financial reverses or lack of employment.

If such a condition becomes general the Government will be forced to adopt sweeping adjustments which may disrupt the whole income tax structure.

It is interesting to note that this claim of the Government to taxes on past income does not even appear on its books and if the Ruml Plan were adopted, would be automatically shifted to a current basis without any real loss of revenue to Ottawa.

Capitalist Quacks

Editor, Bulletin: After 18 months of mental gymnastics the dodo economists of the British government have hatched a post-war plan and it's a "flop".

Those who had been hoodwinked into believing that it was possible for a semi-feudal, intellectually bankrupt conglomeration of Pound Sterling Sirs, Lords and Political Chameleons would actually produce a worth while plan, have been disillusioned.

What must look like a few extra crumbs are dished out to Lazarus if Dives is to remain seated at the banquet table.

Why all the fuss about security and freedom from want if that system which creates poverty and insecurity is left intact?

What is all this nonsense about "British Revolution" when the whole scheme reeks of reaction and on the bare face of it shows itself to be nothing but camouflaged bunkum designed to re-establish a moribund plutocracy's last disappearing prestige.

This rare bird despite its fine plumage is another lame duck—what else could the working class expect from capitalist quacks?

Price on Patriotism

Editor, Bulletin: At a time when our armed forces are surging forward in victory upon many battle fronts throughout the world, it becomes necessary that we, the common people, look deep into the innermost recesses of our hearts and minds, and ask ourselves what our victory aims are to be.

Will we, the common people, allow ourselves to be forced to kneel before the altar of the Golden Calf, victims of the High Priests of International Finance?

If we, who of necessity remain on the home front, allow the chaotic and inhuman conditions, which are the trade-marks of our so-called Democracy, to prevail after this war is won, then we will have proved ourselves unworthy of the gallant and courageous human sacrifices being made by our men in the armed forces.

Let us, the people of Canada, try to match the sacrifices of our boys in uniform. Let us decree that war profiteering and inflated incomes are beneath the dignity of such a country as Canada. Our leaders have certainly failed in the past to realize the desire and willingness of the Canadian people to shoulder any burden, no matter how great, in order that a complete victory may be ours. The people are afraid of neither taxes or hardships which are borne by everyone, from street cleaner to industrial tycoon, is pulling his fair share of the load, without thought or benefit of unjust and inequal pecuniary rewards.

I would hate to think that in a time of crisis such as faces the whole world today, Canadians would put a price upon their patriotism; it is not a Canadian principle to have patriotism at a price.

Post-War Finance

Editor Bulletin: Following the last war, in which I served, I remember how hard it was to adjust the returned men into an environment different from active service. Those who had been working at different trades were not able to obtain employment and some had to take up farming in which they knew little or nothing. I hope when the boys and girls are released after this war we will be so advanced in intelligence to a state whereby we will not have to depend on the amount of gold now useless and locked in vaults as a measure of our means of exchanging goods and services. Steel at this time should be more valuable than gold. Humans are more valuable than steel. So why should we not use the latter commodity as a measure to gauge our medium of exchange. Surely we have learned by this time that a people should regulate their means of obtaining food and services by what they require. We have means now of obtaining anything needed for war purposes and we should have means whereby our boys and girls will not have to live as we did after the last war.

We as a people should demand that our government issue money or credit slips to the amount needed or to exchange what a people of intelligence need. There should not be any reason why anyone should have to accumulate wealth and rent it out to those in need. A system if sought for could be had if our minds could be freed and freed from that of gold to that of the love of one in need. If Russia, who has helped us greatly, has a system that has proven to the world stands up to what she is now going through, we should send men over there and seek their means of exchanging goods and services. Every man and woman should demand that we make a change. And if our present officials we have voted to give us a good government have not the intelligence to give us what is much needed, we should place men at the head of affairs who will make a change. Today there are many around 65 who are living a life that is a disgrace to an intelligent people, due to no other reason than we think in terms of money instead of terms of need. When a person is considered unfit for service he should have a decent living, as they most likely have helped Canada to place her where she is only to cast aside when unable to make a decent living. Let us show the lads who are fighting for us that we are equally as much fighting for. Put a decent system into effect, not depending on what gold is taken from one part of the earth and locked away under lock and key in another part of the earth. Let us use our poorhouses for the former should get at least $16.10 to $16.25 Edmonton and Calgary, and the Alberta Farmers' Union warns both the packers and the Dominion government that unless something equitable is immediately done as regards the price spread and the labor supply there is grave danger that the 1943 bacon contract will not be filled.

In order to ensure an adequate supply of hogs for the next two years a parity will have to be paid the producer and this would be, in the neighborhood of $22.00 per 100. With present price discounts prevailing on all hogs below the B grade, retail prices for domestic pork are plenty high and this is where the government should exercise price control and not at the producer, at present. The same is true in regards to wheat. Present bread prices justify $2.00 wheat to the farmer and all he is getting for the small amount he is allowed to sell is about 60c per bushel. Practically the whole brunt of price ceiling is being borne by the farmer and the poorer class of consumer.

Army Life Book Best Seller

Book Make Fine Gifts For Christmas if They Are Good

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

It is in the winter that many books are read. And if you are thinking about giving a book for Christmas I recommend this one for either male or female. It is "See Here, Private Hargrove" by Marion Hargrove, which is the best seller right now in the non-fiction field.

This new smash hit is published by Henry Holt & Co. And this is what the author writes:

It was about 10 o'clock this morning, until the mess sergeant happened to stroll by.

"Hello, rookie man," he sings gainly, with a horrible gleam in his eye. "You've not been around to see me for a long time. Aren't mad, are you?"

"I look at my hands, at the rifle, at the old shoe, and at the mess sergeant. I hold my tongue. Health is wealth.

"We miss you terribly in the kitchen," he coos, "even when you go on furlough and that my food is the worst in the army. I just saw the first sergeant and I asked him to let you be a KP just as soon as he can spare you. Oh, we're going to do wonders to that kitchenware, you and I."

He puts me on the forehead with ominous tenderness and departs. Five paces away, he turns for a parting shot. "Blabbermouth!" he snorts.

"I suppose he's good to his mother, though."

Covered by Insurance

A young soldier walked up to the mailing window and slapped a loosely wrapped package on the counter. When the package landed, there was that lovely clanking sound that comes only when two glass objects meet each other.

The clerk examined the package and found that it contained a number of bottles of perfume, placed there with no kind of padding between them. They had been dumped carelessly into the box and allowed to jostle and bounce off each other.

"I'm sorry, soldier," the clerk said, "but we can't accept this for mailing."

"You can't?" The boy was astonished. "How come you can't?"

"Well," said the clerk, "the way it's wrapped it would break before it got where it was going."

"Oh, that's all right," said the soldier. "I'm going to insure it."

The Do'man

There's another little story which started with Pte. Warnke, the Brooklyn brain trust over in the classification office. Pte. Warnke reports that one of the colored selectees here was being questioned by one of the officers about his work.

The boy worked, he said, on "one of them big guns."

Since practically everybody in Field Artillery Center works on one or the other of these guns, the answer was considered vague.

"Just what do you do on them big guns?" the officer asked him.

"Oh, I'm the do'man", the soldier replied.

"I've been an officer in the artillery for longer than I can remember", the officer said, and I've never heard of an artillery piece having a do'man. What do you do in your work as a do'man?"

"Well, sir," the boy explained, "I opens the do' on them big guns and then somebody slides a shell in. Then I closes the do'."

The explanation sufficed to show that the young man was the number-one man on a 155-millimeter howitzer!

These are just three of the good stories from See Here, Private Hargrove. I would say it is a book that will be greatly appreciated by anyone on your Christmas list.

Non-Fiction

Several other popular non-fiction books are "Suez to Singapore" by Cecil Brown (which is appearing as a serial in The Bulletin), "They Were Expendable" by W. L. White, "Last Train from Berlin" by Howard Smith, "Van Loon's Lives" by Hendrik Willem von Loon, "Lee's Lieutenants" by Douglass Southall Freeman, "Stars Over the Land" by Carl Sandburg, "The Raft" by Robert Trumbull, "Victory Through Air Power" by Alexander P. de-Seversky and "Men at War," edited by Ernest Hemingway.

Some of the most popular fiction today are "The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas, "The Song of Bernadette" by Franz Werfel, "The Day Must Dawn" by Agnes S. Turnbull, "The Prodigal Women" by Nancy Hale, "The Valley of Decision" by Marcia Davenport, "The Seventh Cross" by Anna Seghers, "Crescent Carnival" by Frances Keyes and "Look to the Mountain" by Legrand Cannon.

Major And Minor Notes

By John Oliver

IN THE early part of the current week, this city was host to Miss Lily J. Laverock of Vancouver, who has sponsored and managed the International Celebrity Concerts there, and through them, performed the same service for Vancouver that the Women's Musical Club Celebrity Series is performing for this city, namely, brings outstanding artists for the cultural benefit of the community. Miss Laverock is a former newspaper worker. She was a member of the women's department of the Vancouver World, and served as its music editor. Since 1922 she has been interested in the business of providing concerts for Vancouver. The list of artists whom she has sponsored at the coast reads like a musical who's who.

JOHN OLIVER

While it would be superfluous to name them all, it may be mentioned that among them have been Paderewski, Melba, Kreisler, Rachmaninoff, Richard Tauber, Galli-Curci, Leopold Godowsky, Harold Bauer, Efrem Zimbalist, Alfred Cortot, Jacques Thibaud, Mischa Elman, Moritz Rosenthal, Pablo Casals, Edward Johnson, Beniamino Gigli, Richard Crooks, Lawrence Tibbett, and others. Among the groups she has sponsored are the Ballet Russe of Monte Carlo, the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, the Don Cossacks Chorus, and many others. From this, it will be seen that Miss Laverock has had a wide and varied experience in the concert field, and has come in contact with most of the world's leading artists.

While here she contacted the War Services Entertainment Board, and completed arrangements with that organization, for an appearance here in February, on a date to be set later, of Mischel and Jan Cherniavsky, 'cellist and pianist, respectively. Both have appeared here before, along with their brother Leo, who is a violinist and who is at present in South America.

Miss Laverock gave some interesting information regarding musical events at Vancouver. "Repeating its privilege of having the master conductor, Sir Thomas Beecham again open its season, the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra had two exceedingly successful concerts recently," she said. "John Barbirolli, who previously had conducted the same body of players, returns in January to lead the orchestra in another program. On Sunday, Dec. 13, Gregor Garbovitzki, formerly of Calgary and now leader of the Vancouver Junior Symphony, and who as leader of that organization, had the good fortune to be singled out for high praise as a Mozart conductor by Sir Thomas Beecham, himself unsurpassed as a Mozart interpreter, will conduct the Vancouver orchestra.

Talented Soloist

Zonia Lazarowich, talented city violinist, who will be heard in recital at the Normal school next Wednesday. Also taking part in the program will be Jean Braschuk, soprano, and Mary Drummond Hatlen, pianist.

here in February, will be the soloist. He is a pupil of Paderewski's teacher, Leschetitsky, who, when he heard Jan play as a nine-year-old prodigy in Vienni, immediately accepted him as a protege."

She declared that the Cherniavsky's are "the most-traveled perhaps of all concert artists before the public today. They have journeyed more than 2,000,000 miles giving concerts in leading cities of each of the five continents. In Australia, they gave 150 concerts in six months and have given no fewer than 80 recitals in Johannesburg alone. This is striking evidence of their general popularity. Mischel Cherniavsky recently was commanded to play before the Queen Mother. In a conversation that followed, the Queen Mother talked with pride of her brother His Excellency the Earl of Athlone, governor-general of Canada, and of the admiration he had expressed for the Dominion, its hospitality and energy of its people." Miss Laverock has returned to Vancouver.

A highlight of next week will be the concert to be given at Normal school at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday by Jean Braschuk, soprano; Zonia Lazarowich, violinist, and Mary Drummond Hatlen, pianist. The concert is being given under the auspices of the Boys' Work Board of Metropolitan church. Mrs. Braschuk has taken leading roles in Edmonton Civic Opera Society productions, including "Florodora" last month. Miss Lazarovich, although only 14 years old, has been a musical festival winner, including the winning of the Fred M. Gee violin scholarship at the 1940 music festival held here. The next year she won the John Bates violin, given to the pupil judged the most promising among festival competitors. Mrs. Hatlen is one of this city's most brilliant piano soloists, efficient accompanists and successful teachers.

The program as follows: Mr. de Lia from L'Enfant Prodigue, Debussy; Tirado M'en Vo" from "La Boheme," Puccini, sung by Jean Braschuk; Sonatina, first and second movements, Schubert; Serenade, Drdla and Berceuse, Ilynsky, Zonia Lazarovich; Maids of Cadiz, Delibes; Into the Night, Clara Edwards; The Little Shepherd's Song, Winter Watts, and The Sleigh Richard Lountz, sung by Jean Braschuk; Csardas, Raff; Souvenir, Drdla; Orientale, Cui, played by Zonia Laraovich; Ouvre ton Coeur, Bizet; The Early Morning, Graham Peel; Come to Me, Beethoven, and Chacum le Sait from "The Daughter of the Regiment," Donizetti, sung by Jean Braschuk.

On Friday, Dec. 18, at 7:00 p.m., piano students of G. A. Kevan will be heard on the recital program to be presented by the Crescent Furniture Company over CFRN. Eleanor Batchelor will play Chopin's Waltz in E Flat; Helen Lilly will play Trika, by Tchaikovsky; Harvey Eichwald will play Sir Roger, by Schumann; Noreen Kevan will play Gavotte and Musette from Bach's English Suite No. 6. Miss Kevan is 10 years old.

* * *

On Sunday, Dec. 13, a student of Jack Toulson, Elwin Scott, will play selections by classical and modern composers. He is 16 years old. Mr. Toulson is director of the Toulson School of Music, Heintzman hall.

Grace Moore, colorful and brilliant soprano, will be heard in the Metropolitan Opera Association performance 'of Giacomo Puccini's "La Boheme" Saturday. The performance is being broadcast under the sponsorship of the McColl-Frontenac Oil Company Limited. "La Boheme" put Puccini in the front rank of opera composers. He had been a brilliant student and won early successes, with the production of Boheme in 1896 he definitely took his place as a front rank composer. The melodies of this opera are striking, beautiful and haunting. "Your Tiny Hand Is Frozen," "They Call Me Mimi," "Farewell Antique Shop," and others are outstanding in all opera literature. In writing for the orchestra, Puccini stands unsurpassed in his masterly accompaniment of the voice and his employment of the full resources of the modern orchestra.

Business was the order of the day at the meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Music Teachers' association, held at the Corona hotel Thursday. V. A. Berenger, the president, was the chair. Mrs. T. V. Hamilton reported progress in the proposed Registered Music Teachers' Association act for this province. Arrangements to set a date and to decide on the form of entertainment for delegates to the forthcoming provincial meeting of the Alberta Music Teachers' Association, to be held here, were left to be decided at an early meeting of the executive. Nominations of officers and other officials of the branch were submitted as well as appointments to the provincial executive and the Western Board of Music. At the next meeting, on Jan. 14, members will meet during the noon hour and hear reports and elect officers.

Edythe Paige Is Daysland Bride

ROSALIND. — With Monsignor Lyons of Daysland officiating, Edythe Paige, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Paige, of Bentley, became the bride of Gerald Enright, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Enright, pioneer residents of Rosalind district. The ceremony took place at Daysland.

Attendant of the bride was Miss Mabel Paige, while Marvin Paige supported the groom.

The bride, who was born in this district, is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schweer, who were among the first settlers in the Rosalind district.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Enright entertained at a dance in the Rosalind hall. A presentation of silverware was made to Mrs. Enright by Bob Kentnedy on behalf of the friends of the couple. Music was supplied by the High School orchestra, and supper was served by the C. W. here and shooting them back in England."

In the moonlight, at the bottom of a sand trench, his mouth is parted in a curious, shy smile. The bombs and ack-ack are cluttering across the Western Desert, but Johnson is far away, back home in Britain.

Throughout the desert there are many harmless-looking opportunities for sudden death. No soldier who sees a water canteen or fountain pen picks it up. They are usually booby traps planted by the Italians or Germans.

Driving through the desert we came to an abandoned whipped tank. A shovel leaned against the side. Captain Fielding told Johnson to jump out and salvage the shovel. The driver went over to it, stood a foot away. "It might be a booby, sir," he called back. We kept a safe distance.

KEPT HAND AWAY

Fielding snorted disparagingly and got out. But he, too, kept his hand away from the shovel. Then he climbed back into the truck.

"There you are," he said, "that perfectly good shovel is rusting away just because dozens of people, coming along before we did, think it is a booby. Touch the shovel and it flies off in your face."

The British are not exactly in the back row on these booby traps, and they have created various forms of explosive surprises. One of the creators is known as the Mad Sapper. With a zeal of a fanatic, he tinkers all day on mischievous mechanisms. I asked him to explain a few of his newest surprises. He gave me the same answer he gives everyone in his stentorian voice: "Do not disturb me. I am the sword of Gideon and of the Lord!"

He won't give any of his secrets away. He allows the Italians and Germans to find out about them—just a mite too late to make use of the information.

LONESOME IS WORD

Lonesome is the British word for the desert. Occasionally you see a long-legged, sand-colored desert snipe and a few fleet-footed gazelles. Once I saw a dog—a yellowish beast—running across the desert, loping like a wolf. I thought, "Now where the hell does that dog find anything to eat in this forsaken country?" Then the horrible answer suddenly occurred to me, and I felt as though someone had punched me in the stomach.

The desert is many things to many men, but to all men the desert is primarily a place of flies. They are the most adhesive creatures in the world. A desert fly, the sand breed that swarms over Cairo and Tripoli, prefers to die under the hand rather than give up his clinging lie.

A man shows his desert experience by the skill with which he drinks his tea, draws the enamel cup away from his mouth and sets it down with his hand covering the top before a single Stuka fly has dived inside the cup.

The most amazing speed is this manoeuvre I saw performed by by Major General W. H. E. Gott, in command of the new corps group of the Armored Division. (Gott was killed later when a plane he was in was shot down by the Germans.)

Captain Fielding and I drove for three miles across the sand to find his tiny headquarters set down beside a solitary palm tree. This was euphemistically known as an oasis. A half-dozen officers were sitting by a table and Major General Gott invited us to have a "bit of tea to cool off, you know."

I must admit I was more interested in watching the general keep the flies out of his tea than I was in the summary of the situation he gave.

CALIFORNIA "ADONIS" MISSES FINAL CHANCE

Mauriello Stops Lou Nova in Six Rounds

INTER-SERVICE hockey in Edmonton is slated to get away during the first week in January with a league consisting of six teams, one more than last season.

No. 3 "M" Depot, No. 4 I.T.S., Navy, Air Observer School, Canadian Army and U.S. Army are entering clubs this winter, the latter being the new member of the Service loop.

Last winter the "M" Depot breezed through their schedule without a loss, chalking up seven straight victories. In addition the team found time to sandwich in several exhibition games and finished the season without a single reverse I.T.S. wound up in second position with the Navy third.

The 1941-42 "M" Depot club was unquestionably of senior calibre. An aggregation which included such players as Clark, Emery, Anderson, Gray, Kennedy, McClosky, Hawk, Gallicano, Webber, Kinley, McDougall, Nicholson, Cameron and Archie would easily have held its own in the Alberta senior playdowns.

MERLUK IN UNIFORM

BING MERLUK, who donned his Navy uniform for the first time yesterday, will be a real acquisition to the Sailor entry in the Inter-Service League. Bing has been playing for the Canadians again this year and is right in the front row of hockey prospects. He finished second for scoring in the city junior loop last season and later as a member of the Maple Leaf All-Stars led that club in the western playdowns.

Harry Allen, leading points-maker in the junior league last winter, had his first workout with the E.A.C.'s on Friday night and although he did a little complaining about a shortage of motive power, looked good and will soon be back in his customary goal-sniping form.

Canadians and E.A.C. juniors held practice sessions last night with both Coaches Bob Gillies and Leroy Goldsworthy having full turnouts. Cpl. Jimmy Anderson has been putting his "M"s Depot charges through their paces on their own ice, but brought the boys to the 119th street rink for an extra whirl on Thursday afternoon.

HERE AND THERE

CONSTRUCTION work is fairly well advanced on the new waiting room now being constructed for the convenience of patrons attending hockey at the 119 street rink. The addition is on the east side immediately adjoining the south dressing room and is approximately 15 by 50 feet. It will be appreciated.

From the standpoint of basketball this week will not be a success for Rec. Robertson, last Monday having been an absolute blank and spoiling what would have otherwise been a perfect performance.

Tuesday night Reg. played with Y.M.C.A. against Latter Day Saints in the City league. On Wednesday he lined up with Wilf Boyce's Y cagers again in an exhibition with the "M" Depot, while on Thursday he performed with his Navy team against No. 4 I.T.S. in a regular Inter-Service league fixture. Last night it was another exhibition game, and today the Navy goes into action against Varsity's Golden Bears. "Just not enough days in a week," mourns Reg.

Not Looking For Anybody's Sympathy Says Armstrong

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Henry Armstrong, the former triple boxing champion staging a comeback, says he will fight Ray (Sugar) Robinson at the drop of a hat and doesn't need any sympathy even if the New York Negro is the standout welterweight in the United States.

Reports that Robinson declined to go through with a proposed match with Armstrong because of admiration for and reluctance to hurt the former featherweight, lightweight and welter champ, brought this rejoinder from Armstrong Friday.

"I don't want anybody feeling sorry for me. I haven't done so bad in whipping Sheik Rangel, Earl Turner, Rodolfo Ramirez, Juan Zurita, Leo Rodak and Fritzie Zivic. Those boys are as good or better than Robinson's last three opponents. Jack Lamotta, Vince Dellicurti and Izzy Jannazzo.

"If Robinson doesn't want to fight me that's his business. I accepted that fight in New York because I think I can beat him."

Armstrong meets Saverio Turiello here Monday night.

Johnny Greco In First Round

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Johnny Greco, crack Montreal lightweight belted Harold Green of Brooklyn into submission in a minute and 54 seconds of the first round of a scheduled six-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night. Green, hopelessly outclassed, was floored three times by Greco's terrific punches before the referee stopped the bout. Greco weighed 136½, Green 140½.

Five-Pin Bowlers Meeting Tuesday

The annual meeting of the Northern Alberta Five-Pin Bowling Association will be held in the Recreation bowling academy on Tuesday, Dec. 15, at 8 p.m.

All members of the association are requested to attend as an election of officers will be held along with the planning of a 1942-43 program.

Any new members will be welcomed.

Allie Stolz Will Meet Montgomery

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—The first match in a lightweight elimination tournament to determine the number one challenger for the throne vacated by Sammy Angott has been signed.

It will bring together Allie Stolz of Newark, New Jersey, and Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia in a 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden on January 15.

Tami Moves To Front Row Of Heavies

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Lou Nova failed in his latest chance at the heavyweight big time Friday night as Tami Mauriello, outweighed and outreached youngster from the Bronx, knocked out the California "Adonis" in six rounds before a near capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden. Mauriello weighed 183¾; Nova, 203¾.

Floored in the first round and in trouble in the fourth and fifth because he couldn't get out of the way of Nova's long, stubborn straight left, Mauriello worked on Lou in the sixth until he had him backed into a neutral corner. Then he fired a short, hard hook that caught Nova alongside the jaw and the California collegian slumped face down on the canvas.

He stayed there while Referee Billy Cavanaugh counted the full ten, and then had to be helped back to his corner.

For the five completed rounds Nova held a slight edge of three rounds to two on the Associated Press score card. One of these the fourth, was given to him when Tami was guilty of pitching a low one, but before the bout sounded, but Nova appeared to have an edge on points in this neat anyway.

Exceeding even Promoter Mike Jacob's fondest expectations, a crowd of 15,369 turned out and contributed to a gross gate of $39,138.

Thus, Mauriello, having previously disposed of Lee Savold and last night having taken care of Nova's comeback campaign, moves to the front in the "duration heavyweight title" picture. The husky Bronx belter probably will take on Jimmy Bivins, the Cleveland clouter some time in January in a bout that will go a long way toward clearing up the situation.

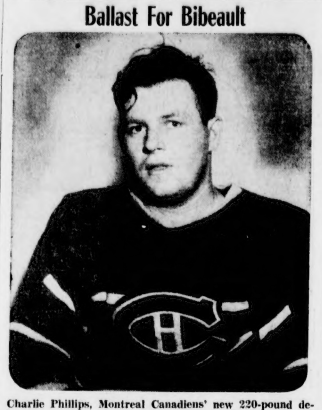

Through the second and third, Tami took the edge confusing Lou with a side-to-side sliding kind of ring-generalship and moving in with sudden charges that appeared to catch Nova off guard. In the second, Mauriello opened a slight cut alongside Lou's left eye with a cutting right, and in the third, another right handed, follow-up by a two-fisted barrage, set the westerner back on his heels.

Mauriello seemed unable to "get off" in the fourth and fifth, the only slow rounds of the fight, and through these two heats Nova made good use of his left jab plus his big edge in reach and his 20-pound pull in the weights. Along with his straight shots, the California mixed up solid right hand shots to the ribs that did Tami no good.

But in the sixth, Mauriello started throwing his fast one again. Moving underneath Nova's jabs, he forced the pace, made Nova cover up on one occasion, and finally had his chance with his "Sunday punch" near the end of the heat. Lou went to sleep there in the corner but probably had no more sweet dreams about his hopes of some day climbing on the heavyweight throne. For this was the third time he'd had the brass ring ready to be grabbed—and missed. Tony Galento took it away from him once; Joe Louis did it the second time. Little Tami put the crusher on last night.

Girls' Hoop League

Bissell Triumphs Over C.W.A.C. Team 61-10

In the only game of the City Girls' Basketball League Friday night in the Y.W.C.A. gym the Bissell team trounced the C.W.A.C.'s 61-10.

Setting the pace for Bissell were Gwen Riddle, Jean Chandler and Dot Myers all with 16 points in the one-sided victory over the C.W.A.C. girls.

Top scorers for the losers were Shirley Horton and Mavis Craig both with 4 points.

The Bissell team led from the start for they outscored the Army girls 19-2 in the first quarter and 17-4 in the second to bring the half time count 31-6.

The last half was a repetition of the first with the Bissell collecting 20 points to the C.W.A.C.'s four in the third quarter and holding the play with 10 points while the losers were held scoreless in the final quarter.

Will Keep Medwick

Swap Prospects Poor—Rickey

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Trade prospects for Brooklyn Dodgers have dwindled to the point where President Branch Rickey says he has taken Joe Medwick off the block and will not attempt to ressurrect his once-potent batting power with oratory.

He plans to leave today for his home at St. Louis to spend an extended Christmas vacation and while there will talk to Medwick' who also lives in St. Louis.

"Medwick was a great ball player a few years ago and there is no reason why he couldn't still be if he set his mind to it," said Rickey. "He is 31 years old and should be right in his prime. There is nothing wrong with him physically.

"Medwick batted .300 last season and his average never has fallen off badly. The difference between him now and a few years ago is in his extra base hits. He used to take a cut at a ball. He could hit anything and give it a ride, especially bad balls. Rabbit Terry once told me the safest way to pitch to Medwick was right through the middle.

"Last year, I am told by various managers, he would take a real cut at the ball on his first swing, but after that he was protecting himself. He missed that first one he would shorten up, just try to punch the ball some place. That can be corrected and I want him to cut loose again on every swing.

"Another thing, I want him to run out his hits. And if he had a swagger toward his other players, I want him to lose it. I think when I talk to him I can convince him."

Rickey explained that while in Chicago for the baseball meetings last week he had talked to Billy Herman, veteran second baseman, about a number of things, including terms and the possibility he might be asked to play first base if Dolph Camilli doesn't return.

Rickey said that while at home he also would see Catcher Mickey Owen, who lives on a farm in Missouri, and Pete Reiser, the young outfielder who has been reclassified to 1-A in the draft and probably will be inducted early in January.

Armstrong Signs To Fight Al Davis

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Promoter Mike Jacobs said Friday night that George Moore, manager of Henry Armstrong, has agreed to terms for a Jan. 29 fight between the one-time triple champion and welterweight Al (Bummy) Davis, Brooklyn.

Jacobs added that Davis' manager have not yet come to terms but that the disagreement is only a minor one over a few percentage points of the gate receipts.

The fight would take the place of one Jacobs tried to make between Ray Robinson, undefeated New York welterweight, and Armstrong. Robinson turned down this match.

Card Dividend

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—President Sam Breadon of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals said a dividend of $2 a share was voted Thursday at a meeting of the club's board of directors.

Georgia Tech's Coach Honored

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—William A. (Bill) Alexander of Georgia Tech was named "football coach of the year" Friday by the New York World Telegram as the result of its annual poll of head coaches of the United States Colleges. Alexander received 73 first-place votes out of the 180 ballots cast. Paul Brown of Ohio State was second with 38 first-place votes.

Tech won nine of their 10 scheduled games during the season and will play in the Cotton Bowl against Texas in the annual New Year's day feature.

This Christmas WAR CALLS COME FIRST

FOR MANY YEARS it has been a happy custom to send Christmas and New Year's Greetings over the Telephone to distant friends.

BUT THIS YEAR the ever increasing pressure of essential war calls makes it absolutely necessary to curtail personal messages outside the Province.

IF IT'S URGENT BUSINESS, Telephone. But if it's a Christmas or New Year Greeting . . . STOP . . .

REMEMBER—War Calls Come First.

THE ALBERTA GOVERNMENT TELEPHONES will gladly accept all calls within the Province, but we repeat, if your friends are outside the Province, MAIL your Christmas and New Year Greetings.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(BUP)—When Dr. James A. Naismith hung up his peach baskets at Springfield, Mass., in 1891, starting the game of basketball, little did he dream he was launching a sport that might stretch the height of the average American a couple of inches within the next 50 years or so, as the nation's athletes began reaching for the sky.

This trend toward skyscrapers was brought to our attention strikingly with the arrival in the Metropolic of Bob Kurland, alternate center for the Oklahoma Aggies basketball team of Stillwater, Okla. Kurland, a freshman and only 17, challenges the Empire State Building with his seven-foot stretch. From corn planters to fiery red thatch.

Kurland, a modest lad from Jennings, Mo., who is known to his teammates as "Foothills" and "Stoops" is just an indication of the altitude which future hoop stars may attain, according to his modernistic coach, Henry Iba (pronounced Eyeba) strikes us as a youngish, elongated and sandy-haired Larry MacPhail. If you know what we mean. Iba had his Oklahoma Aggies are here to play the city college of New York quintet at Madison Square Garden tonight.

TALLEST IN COLLEGE

IBA, who is beginning his ninth season as head basketball coach of the Aggies, frowns at the curious who regard seven-foot Bob an athletic freak, although he admits that curious-gazer Bob is the tallest man ever to play college basketball.

Coach Iba, backed to the wall of his hotel room by fearless questioning last night, explained:

"Kurland and his seven feet are a distinct but natural aftermath of the old centre-jump in basketball, which was ruled out half-a-dozen years ago. The centre-jump was tossed aside, but before it went, students of basketball discovered that the tall men they had been using for centres could develop into excellent all-round players, possessed of great advantages on offense and defense because of their unusual height.

"Accordingly, since the centre-jump was abolished, instead of the average height of players decreasing, it has increased surprisingly. That's why you found teams like West Texas coming to New York, featuring a six-foot 10½-inch player, and that's why Ace Gruening of that Denver A.A.U. club, registering six foot nine, was all-America centre last season.

A BIT TOO GREEN

COACH IBA is proud of Kurland's height, but he is uncertain of his team's ability. He lost six men from last year's squad, including four starters, because of graduation and service demands. His current squad of 12 includes four freshmen and one sophomore, which makes it "a bit too green."

Iba's squad, which plays one of the longest and most comprehensive schedules in the sport—26 games—has just started the season, beating the Kansas Naval Pre-Fliehters, but losing to Niagara University. Last season the Aggies tied with Creighton for the Missouri Valley title, but Iba admits, "if we win half our games this season, we'll be lucky."

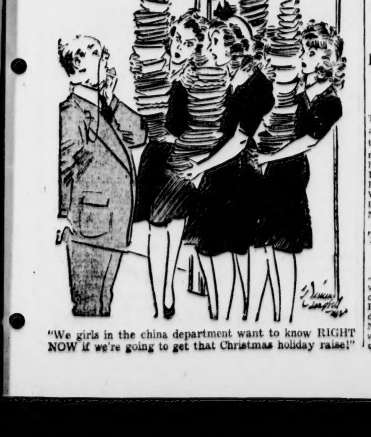

Iba wishes that seven-foot Kurland were a sophomore or a junior. Then the giant hoopster will be a great player, he predicts, because fall boy, scaling 206 pounds, has the unexpected speed, natural grace and basket accuracy of a potential star. But now, as a freshman—still crude in spots—he plays only about 15 minutes a game. Leo Nicinnerie, a junior who reaches but six feet five, is the starting centre. The team average, about six feet five and a half.

BURDEN FOR COACH

THIS stretching up is a swell thing for the future of our race, but it's a big burden for Coach Iba and his assistants as they move their tall men about the country. Kurland can't sleep in an ordinary pullman berth or hotel bed. Pop-eyed pullman porters let him stretch out on divans in staterooms and hotel maids make his bed on the hotel-room floor.

At Stillwater, Coach Iba had a special bed built in Kurland's dormitory. Moreover, it's an expense to supply him with specially-made athletic apparel—oversized jerseys and trunks and size 14 basketball shoes.

"Big Kurland will go to town next year, but he's still a little thin-skinned," Iba said. "It bothers him, and it bothers me, when he starts play and the opposition fans start yelling—timber!"

"We girls in the china department want to know RIGHT NOW if we're going to get that Christmas holiday raise!"

Griffith to See Eastman

Drastic Changes Loom in Training Plans for Majors

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Major league baseball clubs, accustomed to making long spring training trips each year, may make sweeping revisions in their plans after Clark Griffith, owner of Washington Senators, calls on Joseph B. Eastman, United States director of the Office of Defence Transportation, within a week.

Will Harridge president of the American League, said yesterday that Griffith would present the league in a move to get a more definite expression from Eastman than that contained in a letter he addressed to the major leaguers at their meetings here last week.

Eastman at that time called upon the club owners to "select training sites as near as possible to each team's home city where climatic conditions would be suitable." The major leaguers were of the impression that Eastman's letter was more of a suggestion than an order.

"What we want to do, of course," said President Harridge, "is to comply with Mr. Eastman's wishes in the best possible manner, and I think we can do this by getting something more definite from him than was contained in his letter.

"It should be pointed out to Eastman that the teams do not take whole baseball clubs from the home city to the training camp site. We must make sure he knows that before we take any definite action intended to curtail travel.

"We do not want to go ahead with something which might have to be changed later."

Harridge said that most American League clubs, as well as the National League, already had completed exhibition schedules, mostly with teams in the vicinity of the training camps, and that all clubs have planned to cut down the long schedule of exhibition dates on return trips from either California or Florida camps.

Phil K. Wrigley, owner of Chicago Cubs, said he had not made any decision about changing the Cub camp from Los Angeles but that four clubs which had tentatively planned training trips to the west coast were working as a group in an effort to conform with Eastman's wishes. He said Ford Frick, president of the National League, was acting as a clearing house and that no club would make its spring training plans independently.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Pacific Coast entry in the Rose Bowl football game, regardless of what team is picked, likely will hand over a big wad of dough to some war relief organization . . . Details won't be announced until the Coast Conference holds its meeting this week-end, but the plan calls for Georgia to get its hundred grand guarantee and the other coast colleges to collect their usual cuts with the "lucky" team that gets the Bowl bid doing the contributing . . . Looks from here as though that calls for some fast thinking by Georgia and all the other colleges that have received Bowl bids . . . And the P.G.A. is drawing up plans for a nation-wide charity exhibition program for next year that will make this year's fund-raising efforts look sick.

One-Minute Sports Page

One reason why visiting basketball teams will stay at a hotel right across the street from Madison Square Garden this winter is that they're not sure the Garden will be able to heat the dressing rooms . . . Although Eddie Shore had to move his hockey team out of Springfield, Mass., the fans still like him so much that about 600 of them made a 60-mile trip to New Haven recently to see Shore's Buffalo outfit play there . . . Another story out of the Chicago baseball meeting is that Clark Griffith tried to trade Bruce Campbell, not knowing that Bruce is in the army . . .

Wendell Eads Riding

Whirlaway Big Attraction Today's Louisiana Handicap

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Ten other horses are entered, but it's Whirlaway, the little horse with the bank roll, which officials expect to fill the fair grounds with the largest crowd in its history today when the $15,000-added Louisiana handicap goes to the post.

Not since the early 30's, when Black Gold made racing history here and went north to write additional pages, has interest been so high in one horse.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 racing fans are expected to jam the centrally-located fair grounds to watch Whirly, top weighted at 120 pounds, pound down the long stretch in the 1¼ miles feature.

Jockey Wendell Eads will have the leg up on Whirly, which has cashed in $548,261 in purses for an all-time high in winnings. Victory today will add about $12,000 to that amount. Trainer Ben Jones said his charge was in tip-top shape for the race.

Expected to furnish chief competition for Whirlaway, is the Louisiana Farms' Riverland, carrying 124 pounds, including Jockey S. Brooks.

Jockey Johnny Adams, who has 234 winners to his credit during 1942 will ride Heartman, Mrs. H. P. Bonner's entry, which with the Greentree stable's Corydon has been assigned 120 pounds.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

By REVEREND THOMAS SNEDDON
Minister, St. John's United Church
Bonnyville, Alberta

"Roses in December"

"God gave us memories that we might have roses in December."

MEMORY is one of the greatest gifts with which the Creator has endowed men. It gleans the fields of the past and gathers the harvest of the years. It is also one of the loveliest of the gifts of God's grace. It brings distant things near and enables us to enjoy the color and fragrance of gardens long since withered.

Memory is the storehouse of life. The experience of the years is not to be accounted worthless. Each experience adds its own contribution of wisdom, or hope, or faith. He is wise indeed who so orders his life that his mind is full of good and pleasant memories. In nothing else are we truly rich; and in nothing else are we actually poor. For the treasures of memory are the only riches which cannot be filched from us.

Youth gives little thought to memory for the young live for the future. Yet youth is the time for building memory, and we build our own memories. Today's peace comes from yesterday's righteousness; and tomorrow's joy depends on today's goodness. An old minister, who had served the church faithfully for over fifty years, told a gathering of ministers: "As I look back over my life it is the memory of the times when I acted generously that gives me most pleasure."

But the highest purpose of life is not to dig up the past, not to resurrect yesterday and make it live today. The great and sacred function of memory is to re-kindle the minds of men; to clarify their vision; and to fortify their wills. It is to awaken in man the desire, and to create in him the power to consecrate Life to one great all-embracing purpose.

As we are borne back on the wings of memory we find ourselves in the presence of things tender and beautiful and precious. Perhaps we also find ourselves in the presence of things that hurt and sadden us. But if we can bear to remember these things and are willing to learn the lessons they would teach us, even these things will bless.

"O memories that bless and burn,
O barren gain and bitter loss.
I kiss each bead and strive at last
To kiss the Cross."

Demand Is Heavy For Bible Supply

There is an unprecedented demand for Bibles, according to the Rev. H. O. T. Burkwall, district secretary of the British and Foreign Bible Society. The society is doing its best to fill orders for the Scriptures.

At present it is financing required revisions of early translations in a hundred languages: maintaining colportage work in Free China, India, Ethiopia and other large areas in Africa, and in South America and Canada; providing the Scriptures in required languages for prison camps in Canada, India, Africa and in Europe.

Gifts to this world-wide service will be gratefully acknowledged by the local branch or by Bible House, 9939 Jasper avenue, Edmonton.

Minister to Preach McDougall Church

"We need to prepare ahead for Christmas worship if we are to be ready to engage in it with profit to all and to the glory of God," according to the Rev. A. K. McMinn, minister of McDougall United church, who will offer pre-Christmas instruction at Sunday services. His sermon is entitled "When the Lord Blesses."

The anthem for Sunday morning will be "Jesus, Lamb of God, Redeemer," and soloist will be Wilham Townend.

At 8:30 p.m. Mr. McMinn will speak on "The Call of the Christmas Time." Anthem is to be "Father, Thy Children Bow in Adoration," and the male chorus will sing.

Carol Service

Mrs. F. Barbour Smith will be organist for the special carol service at the First Baptist church, Monday, at 8:15 p.m. The service is being sponsored by the Interdenominational Young People's union. The president, Erol H. T. Gahan, is in charge of arrangements.

Reta Speers will be devotional convenor, and quartets from Christ church and the First Baptist church will be heard. Soloists will be Miss Phyllis McAllister, Miss Vera Guthrie and Miss Violet Brown.

Augustana Church

Divine service, with a sermon by the pastor, the Rev. J. Arvid Vikman, will take place Sunday at 11 a.m. at Augustana Lutheran church. Evening worship will be held, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Gas Reports In Mine Book Stated False

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Alta., Dec. 12.—No reports of gas conditions in Brazeau Collieries mine at Nordegg, Alta., where 29 men were killed in an explosion October 1, 1941, appeared in the company's record books, although such conditions did exist, Fire Boss Graydon Minnue told Chief Justice Ives in supreme court yesterday at the trial of Brazeau Collieries on charge of negligence.

Minnue, only witness to be called at the afternoon session, testified that reports entered in the company's books were false, and that such conditions—in respect to the gas—had been going on for 12 years. The book, he said, reported no inflammable gas and that ventilation in the mine was satisfactory, until the day of the fatal blast, when an entry reporting gas conditions was made.

COPY FOR MEN

A carbon copy of the reports was posted in the cabin at the mine for the men to see as they went on duty, the fire boss testified.

Crown Counsel C. S. Blanchard asked Minnue why he had failed to make "correct reports in the book."

"That is how the reports have been made," witness replied.

"How long has this been going on."

"Twelve years as far as I know of."

Minnue was fined a total of $50 at Nordegg last September, when he pleaded guilty to two infractions of the Mines Act in connection with the explosion.

"Was this report shown to the inspector when he came along?" counsel asked.

"Well, it must have been because I saw his initials on them."

Minnue's territory was No. 1 stope, 2 stope and 3 seam. He had no assistant, and it covered approximately thirty rooms.

The night before the accident the witness made an examination for gas in all of the working places—about thirty of them.

"What did you examine with?" inquired counsel.

"With safety lamps," witness answered.

"How does the safety lamp operate?"

"There is a flame on the top of the lamp and the height of flame indicates the amount of gas."

"If flame goes out what does that indicate?"

"Explosive gas."

SIX IN CREW

The witness said that he had one Brattis man and four timber men working with him.

"Did you hold lamp up at roof at every place?"

"Yes, at every place."

"Did you find any gas?"

"Yes, in right water level."

"Where?"

"Some on level faces. Some explosive gas five feet from the roof in room 11 and also room 38 on the fourth left level. It was being timbered at that point and the roof was not high—only about 13 feet."

The accumulation of gas two feet from the roof was very mild, witness told the court. There was vent tubing close enough to the face to keep it clear, he said.

"Where else did you find gas?"

"That was all of the places."

"It is your duty to report gas?"

"Yes sir".

"And to enter it into the examiner's report book?"

"Yes sir".

"Is this your writing?"

"Yes sir".

SHOWN REPORT BOOK

The report book was shown to witness.

The witness disclosed that he only examined face before firing, but not within 60 feet radius from the face. The "quicker I got the shots off the better," he said.

A sketch was shown him and Mr. Blanchard asked if he made this sketch, but before he could answer, Mr. Porter protested. The witness was asked to step aside. The sketch had been drawn by the witness for Mr. Justice Ewing at the inquiry early in the year, and Mr. Porter questioned the right to question witness about the sketch or to question him about his testimony. The witness was then called in and asked to make another sketch showing the position of fan.

After the explosion the witness had found the remains of a fan about twelve feet up in twelve room. All the timber was down there. Prior to the accident, "where was the main fresh air current?" asked Mr. Blanchard, "and where did it go?"

"It went up No. 12 room."

"Can you tell me if when you were on shifts when the firing was going on, if you had any brushing done?" "Yes, we had brushing."

"Was it frequent?" "I can't say it was frequent. Some days we did and some days we didn't."

Minnue told the court that if he "found gas there and I thought it dangerous, I had miners to brush it out before shooting. I did not like to shoot if there had been any gas there." The witness told how he had made a practise of testing for gas in places he considered dangerous.

M. M. Porter, K.C., defence counsel, said "We have had a lot of witnesses who have said that sometimes fire bosses and pit bosses would test before shooting and sometimes not." Reading from the Mines Act, Mr. Porter said, "and no shot shall be fired if there is gas and it is unsafe to do so." To which the witness replied, "I always made a practice of testing for gas wherever it was possible for gas to be there."

MANAGER VISITED MINE

Alec Fedoreshan who for thirteen years had worked for the Brazeau Collieries, said that he was away from the mine one week prior to the explosion on Oct. 31, 1941. He said that he had seen the mine manager, James Stewart, in the mine almost every day during September, and that it was about three months previous to this that gas was first experienced. He told the court that he had seen the fire-boss test for gas before shooting, but never between shots.

The second witness of the day was Alec Pairero, a miner at the Brazeau collieries for twenty-seven years. A month before the explosion gas was found in room No. 9, witness told the court, and the crew had to stop work. He told the court that Jack Armstrong, when notified of gas in this room, sent the men to room No. 10 for two and a-half weeks, and here, too, the men were forced to quit because of gas conditions. When the explosion occurred he was working in the morning shift and they did not do any shooting.

"Mike O'Neill did the shooting the day prior to the accident and did not test for gas before or after shooting," he said.

Marazatti, miner, told the court in No. 8 room, where he was working, on the fourth right water level, two weeks before the explosion, that "after shots there was smoke there and it wouldn't clear. Couldn't work there, so Parker, pit boss, sent them home."

Watson Jones, track layer, told the court that he laid tracks in the fourth left water level, that it was "sometimes dry and sometimes wet, usually damp." On the morning of the explosion he went down No. 1 stope, ten minutes after eight a.m., and into the fourth room, on the fourth left level.

"I saw Jack Armstrong several times that morning."

SUDDEN BLAST

"There was a sudden blast in the bottom of fourth room," which staggered him back 15 feet and he fell into the ditch. He was struck in the face with the dust but was not injured. Ten minutes before the explosion a shot went off then the blast came right after. Ordinarily I would be too far away to hear the shot, but he heard a noise that sounded like a shot at the time, witness said. It did not do any damage where he was.

Henry Wescott was the fourth witness of the day, and his admittance that he knew of the gas condition, but that he "did not quit because I was broke and did not have the guts to quit."

Defense counsel Porter accused the witness of using his job for a meal ticket and risking the lives of his fellowmen as well as himself. An exhibit number six was a letter he had written to James Stewart, mine manager, when he went home to Wayne, telling of the conditions. A friend of Mine Inspector Healy, the witness had secured a job in Wayne at his own home. Wescott now resides in Vancouver and was brought back to give testimony.

SON IN MINE

The witness told the court that his son too, had worked at Nordegg in the top of the mine for ten days. It was also revealed that Wescott had suggested to Mr. Justice Ewing at the inquiry that fire bosses should be appointed by the government and not by the company, "so that they would not be between two masters—the company and the government."

Red Cross Gives Data on Prisoners

Just received by the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society is a pamphlet concerning prisoners-of-war and intended for next-of-kin in this area. The leaflet was issued by the Red Cross Inquiry Bureau in Ottawa, and covers rules and regulations on prisoners-of-war, wounded, missing and sick men.

The inquiry bureau also announces that it is essential for branches and next-of-kin to send in news about the camps, and that the following bits of information are needed—name of prisoner-of-war, prisoner-of-war number, name and number of prison camp, name and address of next-of-kin.

Complete details concerning prisoners-of-war are given including the types of parcels that may be sent, proof that they are received, what may be contained in each parcel, regulations governing letters, and lists of firms issued a postal censorship permit to forward books, etc., to British prisoners-of-war in enemy and enemy occupied territory.

Rules dealing with casualties, the sick, wounded and missing, are also set forth in the booklet.

Offices of the Alberta division are at 17 Customs building, Calgary, and the Edmonton branch is located at 606 Tegler building.

"Owl" Service On Street Cars Starts Sunday

Late "owl" service on the street railway system will come into operation at 12:30 a.m. Sunday and will continue as a trial until January 15, according to a reminder to citizens issued Saturday by Supt. Thomas Ferrier.

The new service will be in effect on the system's two main lines—the blue line from North to West Edmonton and the white line from the Highlands to the South Side.

Cars on the "owl" service will operate between 12:30 a.m. and 2 a.m., last cars for points on the two routes leaving Jasper Avenue and 101 street at 2 a.m. A half-hourly service will be given and the times at which cars will pass the main intersections on both routes were published in the form of an advertisement appearing in The Edmonton Bulletin last Thursday.

NO SERVICE MONDAY

The late service will be in operation daily except Monday morning. Street railway officials point out that the number of citizens who would be away from their homes after the regular tram service Sunday night would be comparatively small and thus the "owl" service between 12:30 a.m. and 2 a.m. Monday would not be warranted.

A 15-cent fare will be charged for the late trips, and passengers may either ride on three adult five-cent tickets or pay 15 cents in cash. There will be no reduced fare for children.

R.C.A.F. Requires Skilled Workmen

Men qualified in the skilled works and building trades, such as carpenters, draughtsmen, electricians, chief stationary engineers, first class firemen, diesel fitters, plumbers, master plumbers, oilers, tractor operators, painters and pumpmen, are required in considerable numbers by the R.C.A.F. at the present time.

Other skilled tradesmen required at once are: Telephone men, postal clerks, radiographers, laboratory assistants, meteorological observers, motor boat crewmen, laundrymen, teleprinter operators, acetylene welders, photographers, nursing orderlies, service policemen, standard tradesmen for aero engine mechanics and airframe mechanics. The latter will receive direct training at air force stations.

Men who desire to serve in any of the capacities named, should call at No. 3 recruiting centre.

Ottawa Official Holds Parley Here

Wing Commander H. Aslin, deputy director of manning at R.C.A.F. headquarters, Ottawa, was a Saturday visitor here.

He conferred with Group Captain W. G. Webber, commanding officer at No. 3 manning depot, and Flt.-Lt. W. Paul Graham, commanding officer at No. 3 recruiting centre.

Flt.-Lt. D. Davis, liaison officer at No. 4 Air Training Command, Calgary, is accompanying Wing Commander Aslin on a tour of western air manning and recruiting establishments.

Armstrong, who has become general manager, Canadian National Telegraphs.

Better World Following War Seen by Howe

MONTREAL, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Munitions Minister Howe today told the Dominion Commercial Travellers' Association that when the war is over "the restrictions built up through scarcity must go, but it will continue to be the duty of the government to see that a reasonable scale of living is assured to all our people."

"Our productive machinery will be equal to the task: those operating that machinery must measure up to that responsibility," Mr. Howe said in an address before the association's annual luncheon.

"We are all determined that the post-war world must be a better world than we have known," he added. "We must make it a world in which there will be no over-privileged class and no under-privileged class."

BUILDING UP DEMAND

Mr. Howe said there was no doubt Canada was building up a great domestic demand for manufactured products. At the war's end, every motor car would need new tires. Radio sets, washing machines, aluminum pots and pans and a vast line of household appliances have been practically taken off the market. Rural electrification has been halted. A shortage of housing exists. Far beyond this, markets abroad must be recaptured and new markets developed.

"I predict that the post-war period will find you serving an industrial society with different concentration from pre-war days," he said. "During the war years, Canadian industry has cooperated within itself toward a single objective of maximum production. . . .

"It seems to me unlikely that business will outgrow these habits. In future, I think it will be considered more important that industry as a whole should progress through the pooling of inventions and technique, rather than that of any one firm should make progress at the expense of its competitors."

PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY

During the past three years Canada has built up new productive capacity to a value of more than $1,000,000,000, of which not more than 10 per cent is of a type for which peace-time uses cannot be found, he said. For instance, Canada's aluminum industry now is so great that it produces more than the total world production in 1939 and supplies more than 40 per cent of the needs of the United Nations.

Mr. Howe said revolutionary changes would come in the field of transportation — railways, airways and shipping.

"At the close of the war, Canada will have under Canadian flag a sizeable fleet of merchant ships of a type that is being found most economical for war purposes," he added. "Studies are being made, and plans drawn, for post-war ships of larger and faster types, suitable for competitive conditions.

"It is rather a startling fact that, with all the strides we are making in shipbuildings in the Allied countries, losses in shipping tonnage since the beginning of the war are more than double the tonnage built as replacement. The job of the United Atlantic is still in its most dangerous phase, and there can be no letting down in the building of merchant ships and escort vessels, without danger of losing all the advantages now being gained on other fronts."

U.S. Airmen Renew Attacks on Burma

NEW DELHI, Dec. 12.—(CP)—Twenty large bombs burst among warehouses and a direct hit was scored on a dock at Rangoon, in renewed American heavy bomber attacks against the Japanese in Burma yesterday, a United States army communique announced today.

The town of Beebe Plain is half in the state of Vermont and half in Quebec province.

Legion Poppy Sales Attain Record Mark

All records for sales of poppies and wreaths since the annual campaign was inaugurated, was shattered in the recent poppy campaign, it was announced at a meeting of Edmonton Branch No. 24 of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., and the board of trustees of the Legion poppy fund, held in the Macdonald Friday.

Net proceeds from sales of poppies and wreaths this year amounted to $3,353.22, as against $2,950.40 for last year, it was announced at the meeting by J. H. Van Slyke, secretary-manager of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion. Increased profit realized over last year is $402.82. In addition there are 5,000 poppies still on hand, valued at $132, which raises the net potential profit to $3,34.82 above last year.

In presenting the report Mr. Van Slyke said he wished to thank, on behalf of the Legion, all those organizations and individuals who have contributed so much of their time and energy to make the campaign a success. Also, the hearty support of the organizations mentioned the success obtained this year would not have been possible.

NAMES ORGANIZATIONS

He then named the following organizations specifically for having contributed so much to the campaign: 19 B.E., United Services, Legion of Frontiersmen, Canadian Division, Air Cadets, Sea Cadets, Ladies' Auxiliaries to the Armed Forces, War Widows' Association, Edmonton Public School Board, Edmonton Street Railway, Alberta Women's Service Corps, 20th Century Club, C.A.V.U., Students' Union, the City of Edmonton, Alberta and members of the Legion and their families.

He personally thanked the army, navy and air force for permitting the sale of poppies in their various canteens on the last day of the campaign for this year with the comparative results of last year:

	1942	1941
Street Sale	$ 1,827.93	$ 1,442.37
Wreath Sale	1,537.89	1,426.39
	$ 3,365.82	$ 2,868.76
Cost of wreaths and poppies	$ 1,964.75	$ 1,638.33
Campaign expenses	248.85	268.03
	$ 2,213.60	$ 1,906.36
Net	$ 1,353.22	$ 962.40
Increase over 1941	402.82
Value of poppies on hand and paid for	132.00
	$ 534.82

Magistrate Metcalfe Bawney is chairman of the poppy fund board of trustees, and other members of the board are Lt.-Col. Alan Elliott, Legion provincial president, and Lt.-Col. Ewing of M.D. No. 13, and Maj. R. C. Arthurs, M.C.

Ald. Frank Bonner, president of the Edmonton branches of the Legion, presided at the meeting.

Other members of the Legion executive present were Alex. Riddell, James McLean, Sid. Bowcott, W. Paddy Griffin, J. L. Scott, T. Bonhouse, E. A. Goodenough, and W. Tanner.

Walter McLaren, former president of the Legion here, and Lt.-Co. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, were honored guests.

Dairy Operators Draw Court Fines

Trafficking in milk bottles resulted in fines against two city dairy operators in city police court Friday. Mrs. Bertha Osterman was fined $5 and costs and Oliver Pawlow, convicted on a second offence, was fined $20 and costs.

In both instances the operators were charged with using milk bottles of other dairies in their milk deliveries.

Several other convictions on breaches of city by-laws were handed down Friday by Magistrate A. L. Millar, K.C.

Mike Bodnicki, Ryley, was fined twice, paying a fine of $1 and costs for overparking and paying an additional fine of $2 and costs for parking his truck too near an intersection.

William Finlay was fined $1 and costs for storing his car on a city street.

Earl Hutton, former grain buyer at Ellscott, was remanded until April on a charge of theft. Hutton was convicted last September on a charge of theft of $5,000 of company and customer funds, and after it was reported in court Friday that he is making restitution he was remanded till April for sentence.

Three Charged In Futile Bid To Scrap Canon

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 12. — (AP) — An grand larceny charge was filed last night against the editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch editorial page and two other St. Louisans in a sequel to an unsuccessful attempt to haul away an orphaned capitol cannon and send it to the war-scrap.

The charge against the editor, Ralph Coghlan, and the two men who tried to carry out his editorial suggestion for scrapping the Mexican war relic was filed at the close of a tempestuous day around the Missouri capitol.

The other St. Louisans identified themselves as Sidney W. Stearns and Ross William Riley. They tried to haul the cannon away at midnight.

Gov. Forrest C. Donnell—who prevented the cannon on the capitol grounds from being scrapped in the first place—was most indignant of all state officials.

Two Injured in Street Mishaps

Two children playing on busy streets Friday suffered leg fractures as the result of accidents with passing cars.

At 8 p.m. Friday Lena May Comeau, nine-year-old daughter of Mrs. G. Comeau, Canton building, was struck by a car driven by Gloria Leslie Hamilton, Ardrossan, on 96 street near 102A avenue, and suffered a leg fracture. Both the driver and the wheels of Miss Hamilton's car passed over her leg. The sleigh the child was drawing was also broken.

Traffic police received a report Friday night of an accident on 91 street near 118 avenue the previous afternoon in which Pollard, age 5, son of Mrs. Fred Pollard, 11709 91 street, suffered a leg fracture.

Russell is in company with his older brother Philip and several other boys, was skating on the street as a car came along.

Russell slipped under the rear wheel of the car. The driver went on without stopping and police believe he was unaware of the accident.

The child was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital.

Axis Supply Ship, Escort Are Sunk

LONDON, Dec. 12. — (CP) — British blue navy forces sank a medium-sized supply vessel and an escort ship in an attack on an Axis convoy off Sicily last night, an admiralty communique announced today.

This presumably was the same encounter in which the German high command claimed a British destroyer was sunk in the English Channel. The admiralty announced that all ships in the British force returned to port with only slight damage and few casualties.

Although the full extent of the damage to the enemy could not be ascertained, the admiralty said, one other enemy ship was hit by a torpedo and all six of the westbound vessels—no supply ships and four escort ships—were hit by gunfire.

U.S. Planes Bomb Japanese Tanker

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Army planes bombed a Japanese tanker, possibly damaged another and shot down six Zero planes in the northern Solomons recently, the United States navy department announced today in a communique disclosing that the enemy had established a flying field only about 20 miles from the American position on Guadalcanal.

A navy department communique said 11 army Flying Fortresses and eight Lightnings attacked enemy surface vessels in Fasi harbor near Shortland Islands. Three bomb hits were scored on an enemy tanker and two bomb straddles were observed on a second tanker.

The army Lightnings shot down five intercepting Zero planes and the Fortresses destroyed another. All army planes returned to their base undamaged.

In the meantime, army Flying Fortresses were bombing the Japanese flying field at Munda on New Georgia Island.

Huge Nazi Force Is Still Encircled

LONDON, Dec. 12—(CP)—London military observers estimated today that from 100,000 to 150,000 Axis troops were encircled in a pocket adjoining Stalingrad, cut off from invasion forces to the west by a Russian-held corridor from 20 to 30 miles wide.

Sources here said it was unlikely the number has changed since the trap was completed two weeks ago because the Germans would be unlikely to fly additional reinforcements to that hazardous zone to combat limited supplies.

While the German ground communications with the rear are cut, they have continued to "fight like rats" and are quite capable of a strong effort either to hold on or attempt to break across the Soviet corridor and reach Axis forces west of the Don, one said.

Airmen Get Pay Before Beginning Christmas Leave

OTTAWA, Dec. 12.—(CP)—There was good news for Canadian airmen from R.C.A.F. headquarters today. An announcement said the regular December month-end pay period will be distributed Dec. 21, just two days before the start of Christmas leave.

With The Railroaders

New Secretary

ROY H. POWERS

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 12.—Appointment of Roy H. Powers, formerly assistant chief clerk in the passenger department, Canadian National Railways here, as secretary of the Railway Association of Canada, is announced by J. A. Brass, general secretary, of Montreal. Mr. Powers succeeds Mr. Brass who was recently transferred to Montreal. Mr. Powers will also assume the duties of secretary of the Canadian Passenger Association, Western Lines. His headquarters will be in Winnipeg.

Roy Powers was born in Saint John, N.B., and commenced his railway career Oct. 1, 1913, as a clerk in the passenger traffic department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, Winnipeg. He saw service during the last war and returned to railway work in 1918. He remained in the passenger department and in 1929 was appointed assistant chief clerk, a position he held until his recent appointment.

100 Women Are Now Employed In Rail Shops

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—Replacing men goes into active war service, about 100 women have been taken on the staffs of Canadian National Railways shops and roundhouses in the past four or five months, and more will likely be added in the near future. This statement was made here this week by E. R. Battley, Montreal, recently appointed chief of motive power and car equipment for the system, in Winnipeg on his initial inspection trip.

"The women are doing exceptionally well," said Mr. Battley. "They have surprised us by what they can do and how quickly they adapt themselves. At present, most of them are employed in the heavily-industrialized areas of Ontario, where men have gone into war plants as well as into the armed forces. They are to be found chiefly in such centres as Toronto, Sarnia, Windsor, London and Niagara Falls, and in Montreal."

VARIED WORK

The majority of the women workers, he pointed out, were married, some of them widows, some with husbands in the services. They were engaged in locomotive and car cleaning, in sweeping and gathering scrap, and also in handling supplies in the commissary, under the stores department.

The railway was not suffering from any shortage of equipment, Mr. Battley said, but was doing lots of business and we are able to handle it successfully. We build cabooses and other equipment and do a great deal of conversion work in our own shops and we have on order 35 northern type locomotives, 300 all-steel 50-ton flat cars, 15 baggage cars and 700 all-steel 70-ton gondolas. Much of this rolling stock has already been delivered."

Works by Canadian Composers Given Hearing at Concert Here

Canadian composers were given one of their infrequent hearings at a concert devoted exclusively to their works, at First Baptist church Friday night, under the joint auspices of The Alberta Music Teachers' Association, Edmonton branch, and the Oxford University Press.

It was not the first time that Canadian composers have had hearings here. But, such events are all too few and are spread too far apart.

Composers do not flourish, and are not encouraged, by having their works reposing unplayed, on shelves in their studios. Performance is a major motivating force in composition. Therefore, it was a matter of satisfaction that the two sponsoring groups saw fit to get together and give a concert of Canadian compositions, including a large percentage of works by Edmonton composers.

Technically, and in craftsmanship, the works did not enter the realm of what is now known as modern music, exemplified in the music of Krenek, Hindemith, Goossens and others of the present day. The writers preferred to remain within more clearly-defined boundaries, handling their work on the harmonic foundations that have served well in the past.

A FINE WORK

Outstanding in its structural details, musical form, melodic delineation and general craftsmanship was Dr. Healey William's Piano and Violin Sonata No. 2, admirably played by Miss Sadie Samuels and Miss Dena Heeckleman. Dr. Willan has provided much testimony on many occasions to justify his claim to a front rank place among Canadian composers.

The finest show piece of the evening, one skilfully-constructed and worked out, and played in masterly fashion was the arrangement for two pianos, by Thomas Austen, of The Keel Row. The soloists were Henry Veltkamp and G. A. Kevan, who gave a performance that will live long in the memory.

It was a fine tribute to the event that Miss Marie McLaughlin Spencer, whose pen name is Rita Spencer, came from Saskatoon to play her three piano solos, Pastorale, Arabesque and Reverie, all of which revealed Mrs. Spencer as a composer of talent and a performer of vision and consummate technical capacity.

NURSES IN FORM

The Royal Alexandra Hospital Nurses Choral Club, conducted by G. A. Kevan sang W. H. Anderson's Birds in the Nest, and George Coutts' O Little One Sweet. Both works were given sympathetic treatment by the chorus, which seldom has sung better. Robert Fleming was represented by Caprice, played by Zonia Lazarovich, violinist, and two songs, Love Like a Drop of Dew and February Morning, sung by William Bowlby. Mr. Fleming was fortunate in his soloists, both of whom brought out the best in the works.

The First Baptist Church choir, conducted by Mrs. F. Barber Smith sang F. C. Colley's King of Love and Mrs. M. L. Wright's Whom Shall I Fear. With Mrs. Barber Smith at the organ, the choir brought to both works a sympathetic understanding of their finer points.

Four Edmonton composers were well represented and contributed of their best, with the performers sharing in the general praise. Mrs. Ethel Norbury was represented with A Lullaby and Israel, with Misses Evelyn Baker and Helen Trimble as soloists; Vernon Barford contributed three songs, Spring, Autumn and Fantasy, with Miss Violet Brown as the soloist.

Gordon Price played his piano suite of three numbers, Prelude, Nocturne and Finale, and Mrs. Barber Smith played three organ solos, Absence, Melody in E and Reverie in F Sharp Minor. —J.O.

Lumber Companies May Increase Wage Schedules

To Speak Here

Prof. J. A. Scott Watson, British agriculturist, who will deliver an address on "Food Problems in War and Peace" in the Masonic Temple at 7:45 p.m. next Friday. He will visit Edmonton under the auspices of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculture, with the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce attending to arrangements here.

Schools Will Open Jan. 4th At Vegreville

Plan to settle the strike of 62 teachers of the Vegreville rural school division was flatly rejected by the divisional board Friday, but Dr. G. Fred McNally, deputy minister of education, said Saturday that arrangements would be made to open the schools Monday, Jan. 4.

CLOSED NOV. 10

Dr. McNally would not amplify this statement in the absence of Premier William Aberhart, minister of education. "But I can say that the provincial department of education will take steps to open the schools Jan. 4," he said.

CLOSED NOV. 10

Rejection of the plan to end the strike had the effect of temporarily stalemating the negotiations to open more than 60 schools in the division which have been closed since Nov. 10.

The deputy minister acted as an intermediary in the strike which has kept 1,800 students out of classrooms.

Dr. McNally said he believed the proposal designed to end the strike, details of which have not been disclosed, was "fair to both sides" and was surprised at its rejection by the school board since it already was accepted by the striking teachers and approved by the Alberta Teachers' Association.

The teachers struck following failure of the school board to act on an arbitration board recommendation that their minimum yearly salary be raised from $840 to $925. The board claimed the district could not stand the added expense of such an increase.

Upward Revision Aims Meet Labor Shortage Prevailing at Present

Seeking to relieve and meet the labor shortage prevalent in the lumber industry, the Regional War Labor Board for Alberta has granted timber operators in this province permission to increase their wages to $60 a month, officials announced Saturday.

Officials are hopeful that the new wage scale will be effective in meeting the formidable problems confronting the industry at present.

The board issued an appeal to all available farm boys to enter the lumber camps after the harvest to assist in increasing production of "products so essential to the war effort and particularly to coal mining at this time."

(Coal mine operators have warned of an impending shortage of pit props.)

MUST APPLY

The board's statement stressed that each operator wishing to change the wage scale must make application to the board.

It said that the minimum wage for lumbermen in 1941 was $40 per month and board, but lumber companies found it difficult "to induce men to go into the lumber camps on this basis because of the labor shortage and the resultant higher wages in other fields of similar labor."

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION

What is your opinion of the effort being made in city council to eliminate whistling by trains within the city limits?

THE ANSWERS

E. W. S. KANE, barrister: I think the effort is laudable. Perhaps it will not be able to do away with whistling entirely, as there are public safety matters to be considered. However, I am sure that railways will co-operate to the fullest extent in reducing such whistling to a minimum.

DONALD DEWAR, Macdonald hotel: Naturally one desires to reduce any noise in the evening. But, no individual would want to have a life lost, or persons seriously injured just because a train did not whistle. If the public could be educated to the point where persons would exercise 100 per cent care at railway crossings then whistling could be eliminated altogether.

* * *

FERRIS WILLIAMS, salesman: The effort of the city council is commendable. I hope it will be successful, but I am doubtful that it can be carried through for some time yet.

Widows' Need Is Again Appealed

In view of recent amendments to the Pensions Act, especially Section 11, members of the Dominion Soldiers' Un-pensioned Widows' Association, voted at a recent meeting to remind Prime Minister Mackenzie King of his promise that their cause would be discussed during recess and again brought before parliament at the next session.

Letters from the Calgary, Vancouver and Toronto branches of the association were read, asking that a united effort be made to keep Ottawa aware of the widows' need.

The Edmonton branch is making efforts to raise enough money to send a delegate to Ottawa. This delegate would join those from other parts of the dominion to personally present their claims.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Furrier, and following the business, a gift was presented to the hostess with best wishes for her recent marriage.

U. of A. Scores Fine Victories Chicago Show

In competition with several universities and colleges of agriculture in the United States as well as many prominent American breeders, cattle from the University of Alberta again made an exceptionally good showing at the International Livestock Exposition held in Chicago early this month.

Including ten head of market steers representing the three major beef breeds, entries from the University of Alberta won the following prizes:

Grand championship; one first; two thirds; two fifths; one sixth; one seventh; one eighth; two ninths; one ninth.

The entire shipment was sold by auction following the show, and the proceeds from this sale together with prize money amounted to over $2,000 in American currency.

The department of animal science at this institution has been exhibiting beef cattle at both the International Livestock Exposition and the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, Toronto, as well as the Golden Gate Exposition, San Francisco, for the last 20 years, and during that time many high honors, including several grand champions and championships have been awarded to cattle bred at the University farm. Both the university and the beef cattle industry generally has received valuable publicity as a result of the continuous winnings by this institution.

Each year previous to being shipped to eastern shows, these cattle offer splendid classroom material for cattle judging.

Canadian Legion To Meet Tuesday

Nominations for officers and executive members of Edmonton branch No. 24 for 1943 of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., will be held on Thursday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m., in the Memorial hall.

All persons nominated must be present in person or have their written consent in the hands of the secretary that they will accept such office if nominated. No defeated nominee will be allowed to drop down for a lesser office, but each person can be nominated for any office or offices at the meeting.

Annual Christmas draw will be held in the main hall on Friday, Dec. 18, at 8 p.m. The public is welcome to attend this draw.

The usual New Year's Eve dance and Jamboree will be held by the branch in the Memorial hall.

Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced Saturday. At Grande Prairie, J. M. Smart is chairman, and Mayor W. S. Shandro is chairman of the board at Willingdon. This latter board includes eight other members, including representatives from the town of Andrew.

Provisional ration cards will not be issued to service men returning home on five-day Christmas leave, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced Saturday. The cards are issued only for seven-day leaves or longer periods. This order is necessary because of the inconvenience to grocers in weighing out two-sevenths of an ounce tea or one and one-seventh ounces of coffee for a 6-hour leave. Seven days permits the soldier, sailor, or airman to collect his full two-weeks' rations.

Sponsored by the Edmonton Exhibition Association, assisted by the Alberta department of agriculture, the annual Edmonton Poultry Show will be held in the Palace Gardens, 9634 Jasper avenue, on Jan. 12, 13 and 14. Entries for the competition close at noon Jan. 2. C. E. Wilson is president and manager of the show, and others on the committee are: L. S. Williams, J. M. Douglas, and Alex. Robinson. Patrons are: His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen; Premier William Aberhart; Hon. D. B. MacMillan, minister of agriculture; L. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture, and A. A. Campbell, acting provincial livestock commissioner.

After being injured in a hotel fire in a northern British Columbia town last week, Lt.-Col. Philip Debney, M.M., C.H.F., of the 4th Canadian Division, was brought to Edmonton Friday night and taken to the University hospital for treatment of an injured ankle. He jumped from a second-story window when the hotel caught fire. The building was burned to the ground in about 15 minutes, and there were several casualties.

Edmonton beer parlors will remain open during the Christmas rush period, in spite of a possible shortage of supplies, it was decided at a meeting of city licensees at the Macdonald Friday. The beer parlors will be open during the regular hours of 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Suggestions also were made as to limitations that should be imposed on the number of bottled beer that should be taken off premises during the prevailing shortage. Representations concerning regulations would be made to the liquor board through the Alberta Hotel Associa-

Passes Exams

Petty Officer John Buckingham, R.C.N., who has recently passed examinations to enter a royal naval college overseas. Upon graduation, he will receive a commission. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Buckingham, 11703 81 street, and was here last week on leave. He enlisted in the navy when he was 17 years old, and has had five years of service. Recently he was on convoy duty in the Atlantic. A former hockey player for the E.A.C. and member of the Juvenile and Midgets teams, he was affiliated with the St. Faith's Boy Scouts. He attended the Highlands and Cromdale schools, and for several years was a Bulletin carrier boy. His father is C.N.R. assistant station master.

Four Officers Are Posted to Army Centre

Four officers of the Second (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Regiment, under command of Lt.-Col. R. W. Hale, M.C., have been posted as officers and instructors at the Canadian Army Basic Training Centre No. 133 at Wetaskiwin, according to a report received Saturday from Headquarters of Military District 13, Calgary.

The centre is under command of Lt.-Col. E. H. Strickland, and while men posted to the centre are now in training at the Edmonton Garrison, it is expected they will be moved to Wetaskiwin early in the New Year.

The officers posted are Lieut. David K. Gunderson, Second Lieut. C. Edward Binstead, Second Lieut. Herbert Ingram and Second Lieut. Jack G. DeProse.

TRANSFERRED

Lieut. Gunderson is manager of the Industrial Acceptance Corporation Ltd., and was commissioned with the Second (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, transferring to the Second (Reserve) Battalion, Edmonton Regiment. He was originally a member of the C.O.T.C. University of Alberta.

Second Lieut. Binstead joined the Edmonton Regiment in July, 1940. He is connected with the firm of Walter M. Lowney Co. Ltd.

Second Lieut. Ingram joined the Edmonton Regiment in July, 1940, and is on the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company.

Second Lieut. DeProse has been a member of the editorial staff of The Edmonton Bulletin for more than 14 years. He also joined the Edmonton Regiment in July, 1940.

The three last-named officers enlisted as privates with the reserve battalion of the Edmonton Regiment and passed through the non-commissioned ranks, receiving their commissions early this year.

Edmonton Regiment Men Are Graduated

Lieutenants' certificates were presented to graduating officers of the Canadian Army (Active), at A. 16, C.I.T.C., Currie Barracks, Calgary, Saturday, by Brig. H. G. Whitelaw, N.D.H.Q., in the absence of Brig. F. M. W. Harvey, V.C. M.C.

Of the 20 officers graduating as lieutenants, seven are from Alberta, and the other nine from British Columbia. Six officers of the graduating class have served overseas during the present war. They are Lts. A. L. McCallum, of Manville; R. D. O'Donnell, of Edmonton; G. A. Garriott, of Calgary, and W. B. Longston of Calgary, who have served overseas with the 1st Bn. Edmonton Regiment. Lt. Ernest F. Anderson, and Lt. W. L. Robinson, both of Vancouver, served overseas with the 1st Bn. Seaforth Highlanders.

The steel industry is so widespread that two out of every five U.S. senators and congressmen represent steel-producing districts.

5,000 Villages in Ruins Supplies Urgently Needed!

Our Valiant Russian Ally Deserves Our Support

THE desolation and cruelties in occupied Russian territory are beyond description.

To starve and enslave the people in conquered countries is a deliberate Nazi policy, and this policy has been carried out in Russia with special thoroughness. It will take some time before the world learns of all the dreadful things that the Nazis have done to the Russian masses.

There are many orphans in Russia. They are the children of the heroic Soviet fighters, and the children of the many unknown heroes, the guerrilla and other civilian fighters. These orphans need and deserve the friendly help of the people in the Allied countries.

The Canadian Aid to Russia Fund will, with the co-operation of the Canadian public, see to it that as much help as possible is sent to the Russian people, speedily and regularly. Through this fund Canadians may achieve the satisfaction of knowing that they are in some measure helping to restore the shattered bodies and minds of these innocent victims of the Nazis. Give as much as you can today.

A Book for Today

By Nellie McClung

A BOOK may be as important as a battle. This is the season for books, when the evenings are long, the supply of gas is short, and the streets are dark. With the shortening of our tether ropes and the need to save money, we may even come to that best and cheapest form of all family entertainment —the oral reading of a book. Some of the happiest memories of my life as a child are the evenings we sat around the "Quebec" heater, behind which mica windows the fire glowed red, and listened to stories of far away places. Long miles of snow-covered prairie lay around us, but the night and the frosty winds were no concern of ours. The blinds were drawn, reinforced by pages from the Family Herald, to keep the frost away from the flowers, and the doors "snibbed" by the home-made mats. The ornamental nickel turret of the stove was laid aside to make room for the large, dark gray double-boiler on the top of the stove, in which was cooking the porridge for the next morning.

BREATH OF LIFE

One winter we read Scott's "Talisman," and to this day I have a picture in my mind of the Crusades, with Richard the Lion-Hearted and his honorable friend Saladin—that great company of religious warriors became a real people to us, when Sir Walter blew upon them the breath of life.

There is one book I always wanted someone to write—someone who had the knowledge, the intellectual clarity, and the gift of writing. There have been libraries of books written about the times and teachings of Christ, but they have been either too academic for me, or too far removed from the New Testament stories. Some of these have denied the miracles or endeavored to explain them, and many of them lost the story in the author's love for didactics.

But this year of 1942 sees the book on the market—a thrilling novel, concerning real flesh and blood people, set in that tragic time when the spirit became flesh and dwelt amongst us.

GOOD FORTUNE

Last week I wrote something about the achievements of those who had the good fortune to be born in a minister's family, and here is additional proof, for the author of this outstanding book is a minister's son—Dr. Lloyd C. Douglas, whose books are already known to Canadian readers. For 30 years he has had this book in mind, but his readers will all be glad that this is the year of its appearance, for never was a book more timely, or more welcome, or more needed.

I keep wondering what it would be like to read this book without having any previous knowledge of the life of Christ. When I finished it, and it is not the sort of book that anyone can skim over, I turned back to the first page and began to read it again,—consulting the encyclopedia and comparing it with the New Testament stories, and doing all this with a feeling of excitement.

REVEALS AN AGE

The book is called "The Robe," and it is not merely a book—it is an experience. I kept thinking all the time I was reading it, what a life it will give to religious teachers all over the world, wherever it goes, for it will not offend Jew or Christian, Protestant or Catholic. It was written with any desire to prove anything. It reveals an age, and tells a story, which the reader can either take or leave.

The story begins in Rome in the palatial home of Senator Gallio, whose son, Marcellus, had defended the Emperor, is sent in punishment to take charge of the Roman Legion at Manoa in Syria. The Emperor knows he is putting the senator's son on the graveyard shift, for Manoa has a high mortality rate even among Commanders. Marcellus and his devoted slave, Demetrius, a young Greek of his own age, set out on their mission. The father of Demetrius was a wealthy slave owner in Corinth, but because he dared to speak the truth, was executed by the Romans and his sons made slaves, and brought in chains to Rome. The Roman Empire believed conquered people just naturally made slave material. Demetrius, with the slit in his ear to keep him reminded of his station in life, had been given to Marcellus on his birthday some years before, but between the two young men the relation was one of friendship and trust.

FEAST OF PASSOVER

At the Feast of the Passover in Jerusalem it was necessary for the forts to send detachments of soldiers to help to keep order, for the city at that time was the scene of great activity, with games and sports and caravans of merchandise from far and near. The roads were thronged with pilgrims, the crowds growing in density as the city drew near. Suddenly there was a wave of excitement, and one word swept over the crowd, swept from lip to lip. Neither Marcellus nor Demetrius understood it. Demetrius hurried forward to see the cause, and saw a "broken-hearted, bare-headed, well-favored young Jew riding on a white mule, clad in a simple brown mantle. His face was sad and bore no sign of triumph although it was plain that the people were acclaiming him as a King." The eyes of the young Jew were filled with a great compassion, and moved over the crowd until they came to Demetrius, and there in some indefinable way, they held. Between the two men there passed a stabilizing power, which swept away all such negations as slavery and poverty. Demetrius' heart was suffused with the glow of this curious kinship.

The tragedy of that momentous week swept on to its climax. Demetrius, mingling in the crowds, listened to everything he could hear about the wonderful Stranger. He heard the story of the Temple and the money changers, and was filled with anguish when he knew that Christ had been arrested. He was present at the trial and saw Pilate wash his hands and Christ sent out to die. To his horror he found his master, Marcellus, had been commanded to perform the execution.

HEART SICKENED

Demetrius saw it all, and heard that last prayer that God would forgive the men who had done this terrible thing. Marcellus heard it, too, and even though he had made himself drunk for the occasion, his heart sickened with anguish and he knew that he had put to death an innocent man. When the lots were cast for the robe, it was won by Marcellus, and given to Demetrius to guard. To Demetrius it brought a strange feeling of peace and strength.

The best part of the book begins, when Marcellus determines to find out about this stranger man, whose life is so tragically linked with his. He mingles with the people of Galilee, disguised as a buyer of woven goods—he hears the stories of Christ's miracles—he sees the people who have been healed of their diseases—he sees for himself how the lives of these simple people have been enriched by the man who owned nothing and cared nothing for possessions. It was hard for Marcellus to overcome his Roman cynicism, and he puts forward every argument and raises every doubt, but the Galilean patiently answer him—they can afford to be patient because they know. He notices that the followers of Jesus seem to have an air of expectancy, as if they knew something glorious and wonderful. They meet together secretly, for they are under suspicion, as the free people today in Nazi countries. Death is the penalty of discipleship. But the faith spreads.

BEARS TESTIMONY

"The Robe" is not a book that can be easily summarized. The writer has not wasted words, and it has to be read carefully to get its full significance. The story ends the only way it could end—not happily but triumphantly, as Marcellus bears testimony to his faith in the great banqueting hall of the Roman Emperor. The background of the story is much like the age in which we are now living, the problems are the same. The writer has built a bridge across the centuries, and has given us a book which is as modern as today's newspaper and as fundamental as the Atlantic Charter.

There is a challenge in this book which even the careless reader will not be able to easily set aside. It is thrilling, fascinating, and compelling; and it is something more it has life and power.

The healing of His seamless dress
Is by our beds of pain.
We touch Him in life's throng and press
And we are whole again."

Soldier Fiance In Love With Nurse

Probably Infatuation, But Girl Should Call It Quits For Duration; Many Wants To Be Babied

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been engaged to a boy for four years. He is now in the service. About two months ago he had an operation, stayed in the hospital about three weeks, then came home on a 21 days' sick leave. While here he made me feel that I was the only person on earth for him. Before he went back his letters were short and rather cool. Finally he wrote that he felt he was not good enough for me and that we should break our engagement and for me to send back his ring.

I was amazed and wrote him asking what was the matter. Why this change in his attitude toward me? He replied by saying that while he was in the hospital he had fallen in love with his nurse; but I can't understand how a girl could sweep him off of his feet in such a short time, when he was engaged to me and we had planned on marrying as soon as possible. I had even bought everything for my hope chest.

What should I do? Should I go down to the camp and talk it over with him? Or try to forget him? Or hope that someday he will come to his senses and come back to me?

I am 20 and he is 22, so we are both old enough to know our own minds. Please advise me what to do. BROKENHEARTED

Answer: If you can keep him from marrying the nurse before he goes overseas you have more than a sporting chance of getting him back, unless he happens to have a passing fancy for some other woman in Australia or New Zealand or Russia or wherever he happens to be, for, evidently, he is like the hero in the old poem who said he could be happy with any dear charmer were 'tother dear charmer away.

Unless the nurse is a quick worker and rushes him to the altar before his fancy has time to cool you may regard her infatuation as negligible. Practically all male patients fall in love with their nurses. If the nurse happen to be young and goodlooking. It is one of the phases of convalescence. The man is weak and sick and he wants to be babied and mothered and the nurse is there to do it. So he thinks he is in love with her and proposes to her between the mouthfuls of cereals she is spooning into him.

A woman who had made a most advantageous marriage and who had been a trained nurse once told me that nursing was the best career a woman could choose to follow as it she had an eye on getting a husband. Nobody else ever has a chance either marry one of the interns or a patient.

FAT IN FATE

As to the advisability of your going to see your ex-fiance and calling for a showdown, I can express no opinion. If he finds on how your cooking up a reconciliation or it may cause you to throw the fat in the fire. Many women on how he takes it—whether he is flattered by your determination to have him, or infuriated because you won't set him free, as he wants to be. It is like one of the kill or cure remedies that doctors prescribe only when the case is desperate.

But, really, do you think you are losing so much when you lose a man who is so fickle and changeable? If he is going to run off after every fresh face he sees, he wouldn't make a desirable husband. If I were you, I would just call the whole thing off for the duration. Forget that you ever knew him, according to whether the war developed him into real man, or left him a cheap little skirtchaser.

Sunday morning breakfasts, or "brunch" parties are quite popular, and are a simple way to entertain.

The usual breakfast, only on a more elaborate scale is the order of the day. Skip any alcoholic cocktails before breakfast, but provide tomato juice or orange juice for your guests.

Hot cereal and sausage are popular — so are ham and bacon and eggs, hot rolls or toast, and plenty of coffee.

If you have a large enough breakfast room to accommodate your guests, that is the ideal place to serve. Choose a definite color scheme—bold, strong colors in cloth and napkins and have either a bowl of flower decoration on your table.

A meal like this need not keep you in the kitchen. Give your guests their fruit juice in the living room, and they have it you can cook the meal and have it on the table by the time they are ready.

W. I. in Northern Alberta

GRANDE PRAIRIE

Several years ago, W.I. women, realizing the need for a local library, requested the town council to provide a room for this purpose. The W.I. library was then formed. The project has grown considerably and recently W.I. members asked the council to take necessary steps to make it a town library. From their efforts the women feel that they have added something worth while to the community life. Last week they bettered the appearance of the room by putting curtains on the windows. The war work committee reports the sending of 13 pounds of fudge to the Navy League as well as quilts. Members are making another appeal for leather and tar donations, to line seamen's jackets. A get together tea was arranged for Dec. 16, when layettes of many devices will be guests. Plans were also made to send Christmas gifts to the hospital.

LOYALIST

Boxes of gifts were sent to local men overseas and men serving in Canada will receive Christmas cakes from the W.I. here. Mrs. T. Johnson demonstrated the making of roller towels and dusters when the W.I. met at the home of Mrs. John Monagle. They were later sold and realized a substantial sum for the funds. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Leslie Olson, president; Mrs. A. D. McDonald and Mrs. Fred Hainer, vice-presidents; Mrs. Ervin Brown, secretary-treasurer.

BIG MEADOWS

Members spent a social afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. Pollack and planned Christmas treats for the school children.

CHERRY POINT

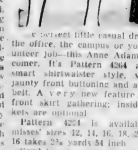

A bazaar was held in the store and post, which are in charge of Mrs. Wetmore. Because the Peace River had floating ice that day the ferry failed to make a regular landing. If I were you, I would just call the whole thing off for the duration. Forget that you ever knew him, according to whether the war developed him into real man, or left him a cheap little skirtchaser.

GORDON

Mrs. G. Davies reviewed public health in Canada and Mrs. Teater gave an idea of the efforts of the United States in the world war. Mrs. Machen also discussed other allied nations. Pillow cases and towels were sent to the Wood's Home and a sum was collected for the Lend-a-Hand Fund. New officers are: Mrs. S. J. Brososky, president; Mrs. G. Mackenzie-Grieve, secretary; Mrs. Archie Davidson, treasurer.

SEDGEWICK

Cigarettes and cards were sent to men serving overseas. Fur and leather will also be collected for the Navy League. Mrs. Blakeney will direct W.I. activities as president next year and will be assisted by Mrs. Gladys Carmichael as secretary.

ROSE WILLOW

Mrs. Black of Edith was chosen president for the year and Mrs. W. Lagerquist will be the secretary-treasurer. Other officers will be elected at the January meeting. A quilt and two dutty bags were sent to the Navy League.

RANIER

Two quilts have been made and another dutty bag is being filled. A successful dance was reported.

KITSCOTY

Twenty-five local men now overseas will receive cigarettes from the W.I. this Christmas. Two quilts, a leather lined jacket and a dutty bag have been forwarded to the merchant marine. The institute will make and fill bags for the school treat. Mrs. Finlan was returned to office as president; Mrs. Miller as vice-president; Mrs. K. MacDonald, secretary, and Mrs. Pidcock, treasurer.

PIGEON VALLEY

An afghan and quilt have been given for the Navy League and members hope to clear a nice sum for their work by serving lunch at a sale. Small bazaar gifts were exchanged and a social hour completed the afternoon spent at the home of Mrs. Fred Stone.

RAMSEY

Due to delayed harvest operations no meeting was held for two months but members kept up their war work by sending parcels to men in overseas and Canadian forces. Three ditty bags and two leather lined jackets were also sent to the Navy League. Mrs. Horrocks was elected president; Mrs. M. J. Sloan will remain as secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Henderson will again be war work convener. Other officers will be chosen in January.

BRUCE

A bingo party at which the prizes were groceries, helped to swell the fund for school treats. Poppies were sold for the Legion and ditty bags were packed and sent to the Navy League. A quilt and two down pillows were given to the Red Cross. A farewell party was held for a member before she left the district and she was also presented with a gift. Flowers were sent to sick friends. The name of Mrs. Crysler was added to the roll.

INDEPENDENCE

A whist drive and novelty dance are planned for New Year's night. The Department of Extension recently sent a motion picture entertainment in the hall when highlights of the W.I. year were reviewed. Carol singing by the group of girls formed a pleasant part of the program when Mrs. A. G. Elliti held the meeting at her home.

BOTHA

Quilting is done regularly for the Red Cross and a donation was voted to the Junior Red Cross hospital. Ditty bags are also being filled.

FIVE POINT

A book shower and series of card parties were postponed due to poor transportation but it is planned to go on with them early in the new year. Boxes were sent to men overseas and those serving nearer home

Your Baby And Mine

By MILDRED MEYER ELDRED

All mothers enjoy that long period of preparation for the new baby, when, little by little, they assemble a store of the garments that precious one will need.

But, we should all be awake to the economies necessary at present and now, of all times, it is magic than foolish to buy more clothes than the baby can ever wear out.

There is a long gap between the most extravagant and the most utilitarian wardrobe, but for one of moderate means we suggest the following list of articles.

Three shirts, long-sleeved cotton or part wool and cotton. From four to six dozen diapers, fewer of the gauze than the other, because they dry more easily. Three nightgowns, long, with draw strings at hem and sleeve and made of either cotton flannel or bought ready-made of the same quality knitted materials. Four kimonas, made of cotton flannel, in which the baby will live the first six weeks. Several shawls to wrap around the baby will complete the necessities for the wardrobe.

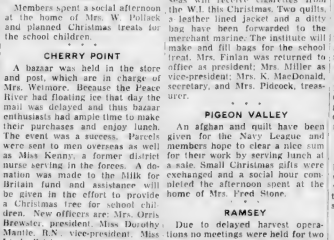

For the toilet basket there will be needed a nice box or basket in which to keep the supplies; a can of baby powder, a bottle of baby oil, some mild soap, several soft wash cloths and towels, safety pins, boric acid or salt water, a rectal thermometer, a small bottle water bag, a bath thermometer (to take the guess-work out of the bath water temperature), toothpicks and absorbent cotton.

For the bassinet six small sheets will be convenient, a rubber pad or oil cloth, plus a heavy washable pad, two all-wool baby blankets perhaps a comforter, if the mother wants to make one.

One can think of all manner of extras which it would be nice to have, but they are not necessary. The baby will have to have some sort of outdoor coat and hood; bootees, small flannel, crocheted or knitted socks; bath scales (to be bought or rented or borrowed); bottle-warmers, dresses or creepers for wear after graduation from kimonas. But how nice to leave these for the friends and relatives to purchase, if everything, down to the last safety pin is selected by the parents, this can only mean unnecessary duplication by friends eager to show their interest in the new arrival.

One reader presents an idea for economy which is worth while mention. She suggests, for the mother who does not need to tramp the streets with a carriage, that she buy a baby basinet and only use this, on its convenient wheeled stand, as a vehicle for getting baby out of doors for an airing. Obviously, she means an airing on porch or yard, but not on the public street.

When American troops landed in Liberia recently many people spoke of this African state as though it were a colony of some European power. The truth is that it is the nearest to being an American state, of anything on that side of the Atlantic. Founded as a colony for free-born American Negroes in 1822, it became a Republic in 1847. Today, about 25,000 descendants of the American Negro colonists rule two million uncivilized natives; the only Negro republic in Africa.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Daughter: "I don't like this big bed. I don't want to stay here alone."

Mother: "I'll come and peek in at you every few minutes."

An ingenius mother will find ways to make some concessions to a small child's feeling of strangeness when away from home, without entirely discarding his usual routine.

Mother: "Bettie objects to sleeping in the big bed alone. I may as well let her stay here with us until I go to bed. She's lonely, I suppose."

McCoy Health Service

The interest in vitamin B1 at the present time is tremendous.

This vitamin is part of what is called the B complex and a marked deficiency produces the disease beriberi. The vitamin is known to aid digestion and food absorption, stimulates the appetite, promotes growth and is essential for the normal functioning and integrity of nervous tissue.

This vitamin apparently encourages health of the digestive system and when it is lacking the stomach and intestines grow sluggish.

Vitamin B1 has been studied extensively in relation to the treatment of neuritis. It is well-known that neuritis often is associated with disease interfering with nutrition or interfering with normal metabolic processes. For example, pernicious anemia, chronic colitis, tuberculosis, malignant tumors, liver disease, diabetes and others, during pregnancy or as a result of alcoholic intoxication.

Neuritis definitely due to a vitamin B1 deficiency may respond very definitely and in dramatic fashion to vitamin treatment. Pain, it is reported, often is conspicuously relieved within 24 hours, and frequently there is an increase in strength within three days. In the face of an actual deficiency, use of the vitamin may perhaps place a bed-ridden patient back on his feet in only a matter of weeks.

Patients with neuritis which is attended by dietary deficiency or by poor nutrition often improve following B1 treatment.

The symptoms of a vitamin B1 deficiency usually develop slowly. As referred to the nervous system, they may begin as a heavy feeling in the legs, soreness of the calf muscles when these are squeezed, and the weakness which comes on after walking. Burning of the soles of the feet and numbness of the ankles may appear. Generally the disease is affected first, then the weakness gradually spreading upward, but in those using the arms extensively, the arms may be first affected.

Lack of vitamin B1 as referred to the digestive system usually shows itself in lack of appetite and nausea. When such symptoms are the direct outcome of such a deficiency, they are often promptly relieved by vitamin B1 treatment.

In treatment, the vitamin may be used in pure crystalline form, or treatment in the milder stages of cases may consist of giving substances rich in the vitamin. As an example of the latter, patients with a moderate deficiency may respond well to powdered brewers' yeast. The yeast not only supplies vitamin B1 but also supplies other parts of the B complex.

The vitamin B1 problem as it hits the average individual concerns itself with the regular selection of foods providing this essential of the human dietary.

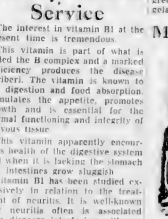

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service in care of this paper.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY

America's Card Authority

While most bridge plays made at the bridge table can be classified and studied in their relation to general principles, others defy such cut-and-dried treatment. They happen too seldom to be given a name, and they depend on very exceptional breaks in the cards.

Today's hand is quoted from the new book, "Better Bridge for Better Players." By Charles H. Goren. Goren does not say so, but he played this hand years ago in a match against three of the best South cards, he won the opening lead, took two more rounds of trumps. Then cashed the two top diamonds.

When the bad break in diamonds showed up, the contract looked hopeless. But Goren figured out a line of play that might work. He cashed the ace of spades, then led the deuce and finessed the 10. Now Goren led the king of clubs from dummy and discarded the king of spades.

West won the king of clubs with the ace, but then, having nothing left but black cards, had to lead back to dummy. On the two black queens Goren discarded his two diamond losers, making the con-

A dress that wears its own jewelry is the black one shown at left. The bracelet and pin are embroidered in antique silver and colored stones, copied from Mexican motifs. Practical is the short but dressy black crepe frock, centre, with a "sweetheart" neck embroidered in silver and blue. The dinner hat has sprays of black and pale blue feathers. Typical of the new pale colors for winter is the draped beige crepe at right, which looks particularly well with furs and dark accessories to point it up. Its fastenings are large black circlets. All three dresses were designed by Charles Armour.

Betty Maze Complimented At Reception

Betty, whose marriage to Sub-Lt. Ross Hickey, R.C.N.V.R., will take place Saturday next, Mrs. Robert Maze is receiving 200 guests at a pre-nuptial tea Saturday afternoon and evening at her home in Garneau.

The drawing room, arranged attractively with victory flags, is also bright with carnations of red, white and blue. Motifs of the navy and air force were used throughout.

The tea table, set with white lace, was centred by sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots in striking contrast. White candles, in silver holders made the arrangement complete.

Mrs. Maze was frocked in Queen's blue, a slipper-length gown of velvet. Pink roses on corsage were pinned at her shoulder. The bride-elect made a pretty picture in her robe of scarlet jersey, which fell in graceful folds to her slippers. White carnations to contrast were pinned at her shoulder.

Miss Antoinette Maze received visitors at the door.

Pouring tea were Mrs. George Crawford, wife of Lt. Crawford, officer commanding the Edmonton Naval Barracks; Mrs. R. H. Cautley, Mrs. J. Beauchamp, Mrs. James Lees, Mrs. Gerald Nixon, Mrs. Thomas Duguid, Mrs. Stuart Johnston, Mrs. E. F. Henderson, Mrs. Leonard Beatty, and Mrs. Fraser Duncan.

Serviteurs included the Misses Mary Henderson, Joyce Lees, Cecelia Davidson, Ada Cheadle and Vera Claxton.

Financier Dies

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Syrup at Home

Quick Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This well known recipe is used by many thousands of housewives because they have found that it gives them an effective, dependable medicine for distressing winter coughs. It's so easy to mix—anyone can do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for effects in throat membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of cough syrup, unusually quick-acting and dependable, and you get four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it. You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of severe coughs, giving quick and lasting relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please in every way.

Men of Canada's army, navy, air force, and servicemen from the United States, Australia and New Zealand, were present on Friday evening at the Macdonald hotel, when the Civil Service Association, Branch No. 2 held its first dance of the season, in the main ball room. More than 350 were in attendance.

The room was bright with flags, and large replicas of the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes adorned each end.

The committee in charge of arrangements included: H. E. Esplin, chairman; Miss Jessie Ross, secretary; Miss June Fedorovich, R. Berg, W. C. Elliott, Miss Lillian Crawford, Miss Betty Renaud, Oscar Skode, A. D. Bruce, F. J. Fitzpatrick and Miss Mary Lynch.

U.S. Couple Are Wed at Alaskan Post

A wedding of unusual interest and in which war circumstances played a strange part took place at Skagway, Alaska, on Nov. 15, when Gertrude Ross Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Hoss of St. Louis, Missouri, became the bride of Bryon Robert Bruner of California. The ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Keller of Skagway, with the Rev. A. Garland Roxenberry officiating.

The bride and groom met in California, where both had business connections with the same organization. More than two years ago, the headquarters of their work was established in Honolulu, where both were transferred. They were here on the Sunday of Dec. 7, when the Japanese carried out their fateful attack on Pearl Harbor. They left the islands and were sent to Alaska.

Their romance was climaxed by the wedding held recently at that post.

Flowers, which decorated the rooms of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keller, were flown from United States. They were made up of bronze and gold chrysanthemums.

The bride chose an afternoon frock of light blue chiffon, fashioned with a pleated skirt. A corsage of gold orchids was pinned to her shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Keller attended the couple.

A reception in the form of a dinner party was held following the ceremony, with 40 guests in attendance. Toast to the bride was proposed by Col. McCullough, commanding officer at Skagway.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruner arrived in Edmonton last Saturday, on a short leave, and are guests at the Macdonald hotel. Mrs. Bruner will join her husband at Prince Rupert at the end of the month, where they will be transferred again, to a destination as yet, unknown.

City Art Club Loans Pictures To High Schools

Announcement was made by the Edmonton Art Club Saturday, that paintings by members of the club will be loaned to high schools in the city, the pictures to be displayed in halls and class rooms. The scheme was carried out successfully last year, and the school board co-operates by arranging for insurance on the pictures, and also circulating them throughout the schools.

Edmonton branch of the Alberta society of artists is making plans to send a collection of water colors to Vancouver, for display in the Vancouver Art Gallery, from Jan 6 to 16.

The Art Club plan for a monthly show of individual art work is continuing, at the Edmonton Civic Block, Museum of Arts. Mrs. Ruth Hailey has her work displayed for December, and the pictures are made up of still life and landscape views, and flower paintings.

The club enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. O. J. Walker, when it met at her home for the November meeting. Mrs. D. Cameron and Cpl. Willis of the U.S. Army Air Corps were guests. The December meeting proved to be a "work night" when members made sketches from life. The club met at the Museum of Arts.

J. Gordon Sinclair, Alberta organizer for the Canadian Federation of Artists, reports that the Federation has a membership of 357 artists for its first year of operation and that the Alberta regional group has 22 members.

The Edmonton F.C.A. members met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. S. Kaufman. A news letter was sent to all the out-of-town members.

W. R Beny of Medicine Hat, an Alberta F.C.A. member, showed one of his watercolor paintings in the Canadian watercolor show at the Edmonton museum last month.

Through Mr. Beny's efforts, (as reported in the Toronto Saturday Night) "The Canadian Armed Forces Art Exhibition" was brought to Hart House.

This exhibition, the first of its kind in Canada, included several hundred paintings and drawings collected from officers and men of the armed forces, who painted them in their spare time in camp. Hart House exhibition shows a "keen sense of humor and realism."

The art section of the Toronto Saturday Night, Nov. 14th issue, carried pictures and comments on the work of two Alberta artists, H. G. Glyde and Bernard Middleton, it was announced by the Edmonton Art Club.

Dr. D. G. Revell will give a free lecture on art anatomy to students of the sculptural class, at their regular Friday night meeting at the Museum of Arts, Dec. 18. An invitation to attend this lecture is extended to all those interested. As there will be sketching of the skeleton parts which Dr. Revell is using to illustrate his lecture, it is suggested to bring sketching material.

Libby's HOMOGENIZED

BABY FOODS

Many doctors are recommending Libby's Homogenized Baby Foods with resulting fewer digestive upsets for infants.

Reason is that this remarkable process of Libby's known as Homogenization, breaks up all the indigestible portions of the food, releases all the nutritious elements inside food cells, makes it extra easy for baby's digestive juices to digest the food.

In Memoriam 7

To assist readers in preparing "In Memoriam" notices, the Edmonton Bulletin has prepared a booklet of some very appropriate verses. It is free upon request. Call, write or phone for a copy.

IN loving memory of our little son, Lorne William Morris, who died December 12, 1936, aged 4½ years.
When you have come where I have stept,
You will wonder why you wept.
He is glorious—He is good—
All His ways are understood.
—Until the day breaks and the shadows flee away. Mamma and Daddy.

MORRIS—In loving memory of little Lorne, who passed away December 12, 1936.
Heartaches deep
And memories dear
Dwell side by side
Each passing year
So dearly loved and sadly missed by his Nannie and Uncle Ted.

Judicial Sale of Farm Property by Tender

Pursuant to the order for sale and directions of the Honourable Mr. Justice O'Connor, sealed tenders will be received for the purchase of

The South East quarter of Section Two (2) in Township Fifty-three (53) of Range Three (3) West of the Fourth Meridian in the Province of Alberta, containing by admeasurement 160 acres more or less; Reserving unto His Majesty, His Successors and Assigns all mines and minerals.

The above property is one and one-half miles from Marwayne and three quarters of a mile from the nearest school. The soil is black loam with clay subsoil. Ninety-five acres are cultivated. Fencing is valued at $100.00. There is a frame house 20x12, a barn 30x16' and two granaries.

The property will be offered for sale at an upset price of $2,940.[illegible] Tenders must be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Tenders re Newton v. Dafoe No 31516" addressed to M. R. P. Wallace, K.C., Clerk of the Supreme Court, Court House, Edmonton, Alberta, and must be in the hands of the said R. P. Wallace not later than four o'clock in the afternoon on the 15th day of December, 1942.

TERMS OF SALE—Each tender shall be accompanied by a marked cheque or cash for 10% of the amount of the tender and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid (unless the time is otherwise extended) into Court within 60 days after acceptance of the tender without interest.

The deposit of 10% shall be forfeited by the successful tenderer if he refuses to carry out the purchase after acceptance of his tender. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers shall be returned to them, immediately after rejection thereof.

The highest or any tender not necessarily accepted. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of sale of the Supreme Court of Alberta so far as the same are applicable.

For further particulars apply to Rutherford and Newton, Barristers, 914 McLeod Building, Edmonton, Alberta.

DATED at Edmonton this 17th day of September, A.D. 1942.

Approved, it appearing that the value of the land does not exceed the plaintiff's claim.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—Tax selling while still light again was a factor in maintaining today's slightly irregular stock market trend. Fractional advances were plentiful at the start and near the close but minor declines were well distributed.

Little Activity On 'Peg Market

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12—(CP)—Wheat prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, December 90 cents a bushel, May 93¾ cents.

Only scattered trades in wheat futures were reported, presumably for mill and eastern account. No export business was confirmed in Canadian wheat or flour.

In cash wheat a little Three Northern was taken by mills and shippers. In addition the lower grades were taken for all rail shipment east.

Oats received fair support from mills and shippers while shippers were also taking May barley.

Country marketings at Winnipeg yesterday totalled 946,000 bushels, compared with 921,000 bushels a year ago.

Car inspections yesterday amounted to 349 cars against 444 cars last year.

Anniversary Present

American shipyards produced many unwelcome Pearl Harbor anniversary presents for the Axis over December 6th and 7th. Above, a Navy patrol blimp floats overhead as tugs push the new 25,000-ton aircraft carrier Bunker Hill into midstream after its launching at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Fore River Yard, Quincy, Mass. Another new flat-top, U.S.S. Belleau Wood was launched the day before at Camden, N.J.

Drapeau Collapses At Quebec Meeting

QUEBEC, Dec. 12—(CP)—Jean Drapeau, young unsuccessful anti-conscriptionist candidate in the recent Montreal-Outremont by-election who failed to report for a military medical re-examination at Montreal yesterday, fainted during a speech here last night.

Special speaker at a Ligue Pour la Defence du Canada rally at Midtown Palais Montcalm to mark the 11th anniversary of the passage of the Statute of Westminster, Mr. Drapeau had just finished saying the tSatute had confirmed the independence of Canada when his knees sagged and he fell to the floor.

John Boucher, Quebec lawyer and chairman of the meeting, called for a doctor. After Mr. Drapeau had received medical attention and had been taken from the hall, Mr. Boucher announced that "the strain of the recent political campaign in Outremont has proven a drain on Mr. Drapeau's health and he will not be able to carry on his address."

STOCKHOLM — (CP) — The Swedish American Line has formed a subsidiary, "Swedish American Aero," for an air line between Sweden and the United States after the war.

Lake Chad, in central Africa, is fed by many streams, but drained by none.

Former American Secretary of War Plans New Party

TOPEKA, Kas., Dec. 12—(AP)—Formation of a new Commonwealth party from dissident elements in the Democratic and Republican parties was proposed yesterday by Harry H. Woodring, former United States secretary of war and governor of Kansas in 1931-32. He said he is willing to direct organization of the new group personally, if necessary, and expressed confidence a national ticket could be developed for the 1944 election, with state tickets in many places.

Coast Tram Men Will Go on Strike

VANCOUVER, Dec. 12—(CP)—Street railwaymen employed by the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Ltd. in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminister will go on strike Friday, Dec 18, unless they are awarded a cost-of-living bonus, the street railwaymen's union announced today.

Alberta Output Of Oil Is Lower

CALGARY, Dec. 12—(CP)—For the week ended Dec. 7 the average daily oil production in Alberta showed a decrease of 1,518 barrels as compared with the corresponding week a year ago, although production showed an increase of 530 barrels daily over the previous week, according to a report issued by the Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board.

Production for the week ended Dec. 7 was 27,016 barrels daily from 200 Turner Valley wells and 33 in other fields. This compares with 28,534 barrels daily for the same week last year from 174 Turner Valley wells and 21 in other fields.

Wheat Pool Will Distribute $873,000 To Members in 1943

CALGARY, Dec. 12—(CP)—During the year 1943 the Alberta Wheat Pool will distribute approximately $873,000 to its members, according to final figures released from head office Friday.

Of this total, $423,000 will be devoted to the purchase of reserves. Patronage dividends on deliveries to poll elevators in the 1940-41 crop year will account for $230,000 and for the 1941-42 season $220,000 will be distributed.

OLEO DEVELOPMENT

Development of oleomargarine grew out of the fact that many middle 19th century Frenchmen stayed up late. Napoleon III, disturbed by the late hours and people burning their lamps in which edible fats and oils were used as fuel, offered a prize for the invention of an edible fat that would make up for those burned by householders. Mege-Mouries won the prize with oleomargarine.

Guide Program Is Useful in Wartime

"We champion the best youth program in the world. Guides and Scouts in England are found to be already trained when called up. Through our program, we should build a strong future citizenship and a strong national life," Mrs. S. H. Gandier, deputy provincial commissioner, stated at the annual meeting of the South Edmonton division of the Girl Guide association, Dec. 7.

She spoke about the importance of Guide training in wartime and the need for the co-operation of parents in the work. She presented the pins and badges.

The meeting, which was held in Holy Trinity church, was attended by the girls, their parents and friends, who saw members of the second Holy Trinity company carry out a first aid demonstration. Sixty-five Guides were seated in a horseshoe formation for the enrolment ceremony, and presentation of the life-saving badge to Mavis Hoback.

Representing specialized training and proficiency in leadership, first aid and outdoor activities, a first class badge was awarded to Barbara Oulton of St. Johns. All-round cords went to Lavonne Broadfoot, Margaret Hunter and Pat Flavin, meaning that these girls have earned a first class badge as well as seven other proficiency badges.

WINNER OF CUP

The second Edmonton Holy Trinity company was winner of the Alberta challenge cup for handicraft and St. John's cup for first aid. Garneau company placed third for Alberta handicraft, while the 13th St. Barnabas Brownie pack tied for first place for the annual Bay Day award.

Christmas greetings were read to the division from third officer Helen Burns, W.R.N.C.S.

Mrs. D. S. Warren, divisional commissioner, presided at the business meeting, when individual company and pack reports were received.

These reports revealed a variety of community and war services carried out by the Guides. One group held a mock air raid alert when first aid and ARP training was practiced. First aid training has been emphasized in the companies, and many have earned their St. John Ambulance certificates.

GUIDES ASSIST

During the summer, Guides assisted with salvage collection by travelling with the trucks. As first aid assistants, they participated in the mock air raid alerts in June and October, while other Guides took part as messengers, clerks and telephone operators.

The Red Cross has been assisted by the donation of hand-made toys to the Superfluity Shop and the making of over a dozen pyjamas. Quilts and knitted garments have been contributed for the Guides of Britain, and a group of Rangers is training for war emergency services.

The Brownie packs have shared in the war program by donating to soldiers' parcels and making clothing for British children. Carrying out the motto of the Guides, to love-aided many needy families in Edmonton, it was reported.

Nominations Made Boys' Parliament

Addressing a radio audience tonight, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m., and again, Dec. 19, at the same time will be members of the Tuxis boys' groups, who are campaigning for boys parliament. They will offer their views on boys' problems, and speak in behalf of nominees.

Five seats in the parliament are available to the city of Edmonton, and to date 20 nominations have been received. They are: Lorne Calhoune, Garneau United; Leroy Mallett, Eastwood United; Harold Williams, Metropolitan United; Melvin Harper, Central United, Hadley Ward, Highlands United, and Jack Angel, Forest Heights United.

Churches in the city who have not yet invited Tuxis members to visit their congregations, are asked to call Harold Sprague at 82023, who will make arrangements.

Blue Tears, by Anne Dalgeish. Tales of a village on the Bay of Fundy in autumn, winter, springtime, keen sea, boys and girls—all take part in the stories.

Canada's Past in Pictures, by C. W. Jefferys. This collection of fifty drawings by a well-known historical painter, makes a fascinating pictorial history of Canada. Each picture is descriptive text is by the author.

Coasting with the Crew, by Arnold H. Watson. When high school boys, Bartlett their way from Montreal to Cape Race on the Bluenose, they have a thrilling outdoor time and a record they cannot help but remember.

Gay Head of Cape Breton, by Amy Hogeboom. Amy, a lass of Highland descent, and Angus, a Micmac Indian boy, live on the Isle of Cape Breton. Together they have a thrilling speed-boating trip, pay a visit to the Highland Games, and spend a white Canadian Christmas.

Gay Neighbors, by Mary Gleave. Canadian girl of six lives in a village where Canadians, English, Scots, Germans, Poles and Russians live in peace. Customs of the various groups are attractive.

Hans-Lisa's Knitting, by Stephen Meader. A story of the Norwegian people, whose sportsmanship and fearlessness are revered. Based on the true adventures of the winter activities of the Norwegian shepherd boys in the Thunder Bay district of Ontario.

Robertson Recital

The organ, piano and choral recital, sponsored by the Trail Rangers and C.G.I.T. at Robertson United church, Nov. 20, is reported to have been "very successful."

G. A. Kenan was organist, and Mrs. Kenan, pianist. Under the auspices of the winter activities of the Edmonton Presbytery in the Thunder Bay district of Ontario.

UNIVERSITY
By Jane Becker

A sleigh ride was held at Varsity high last Friday night, and proved to be one of the most successful ventures of the year so-far, both from a financial standpoint and a social one. Almost half the school turned out, and a good many more came to the pie social and dance afterwards, in the chicken coop. One of the sleighs overturned during the course of the ride, and the majority of the occupants landed rather heavily on the road, but there were no serious results. Miss D. Sheppard, honorary president of the dramatics club, which sponsored the activities, was chaperone.

Some definite action in connection with hockey has been taken, and the bouse will hold practices twice a week. A house league is being formed, and when a school league is organized a team from it will be entered. Basketball workouts are going on regularly, four having been held so far.

McDOUGALL COMMERCIAL
By Don Daynes

After the preliminary initiations of the Phi Hadda Gi club, which consisted of wearing sweaters backwards and performing tasks in their hair, the girls are now prepared to settle down. They intend to start a gym. line around the assembly hall and have the name collected to buy a war savings certificate, and after doing this the club will be sold for cash and the certificate will be raffled. This is only one of few functions of the newly formed girls' club which put off to such a good start. Meetings are held every Tuesday and Thursday noon.

A club which has had a lot of trouble getting started this year by name is the bowling club. It seems that no person under the age of 18 are allowed in the Recreation alleys and therefore that eliminated most of the students at the school. However, the president of the club got around that hitch by having one of the teachers go along whenever the teams met.

Other lines of sport, mainly basketball, are being practised at the school. Such a practice held in the gym. the girls' coach, Mr. Hollingsworth severely injured his ankle and was forced to remain in bed. Mrs. Hall has usual duties for a few days. He is back, however, with the aid of crutches.

STRATHCONA
By Gwen McGregor

Mingled with the happy thoughts of Christmas and the holidays are the not so pleasing ones of exams. Now that lists are posted and time tables made out, exams will start next week and will continue until the terms' end.

The officers for the yearbook have not yet been selected but careful consideration is being given to select a suitable and reliable editor.

Much discussion concerning the basketball team has been heard. Under the coaching of Mr. Lucas, this should be very good for there shall be a variety of entertainment and the drama club will present a play.

Rumor has it that these must be girls' hockey team, but nothing official has been stated. There was a senior and junior boys' hockey meeting on Wednesday, and practices shall start soon.

A committee of four teachers has been appointed to handle the business end of the year play. They are H. D. Ainley, C. Burchell, M. Rookwood and P. R. Rose. To assist these teachers are four students, headed by Jack Marion they are Grace Stokes, Margaret Lipsey and Jack McGregor.

According to a report issued by the superintendent of schools, R. S. Sheppard, Strathcona led all the city schools in the war savings stamp drive, by selling $102 worth of stamps in November.

The dramatics club will not commence activities until after Christmas, a meeting was held Tuesday and many enthusiastic bowlers turned out.

ST. MARY'S
By Yvonne Olsen

Students of St. Mary's are busy poring over their texts and doing many extra studying in preparation for the Christmas exams. They will commence December 16 and carry on until Dec. 22. School closes Dec. 23.

An interesting and encouraging event for present and future pupils took place in the school auditorium last week when Pat Robertson and Pat MacDonald were awarded prizes for outstanding marks in social studies three and English three.

Presentations and congratulations were given by A. A. O'Brien, superintendent of the Separate school board. Following was musical entertainment supplied by the music two class.

EASTWOOD
By Edna Hornick

A march of pennies was held on Wednesday, Dec. 9, in the assembly hall of Eastwood high school. It was not an uncommon sight to see a teacher or a student digging deep and bringing out from 30 to 100 pennies. The students canvassed their neighborhoods for donations. The total amount taken in was $63.

On Tuesday, Dec. 8, the interschool Christian fellowship had a guest speaker. She was Mrs. Burkwall, recently from China, who is in charge of the British Informed Bible society. She spoke on the work of the British Informed Bible society in the world.

The skating party, held on Dec. 11, Friday night, was a great success. A large number of students attended and a good time was held by all.

All the clubs are playing their tournaments according to schedule.

VICTORIA
By Jack Towers

The girls of the basketball house league will have a lunch and dance to be held next Tuesday at noon. Each girl is inviting a boy basketballer to come and share a "double lunch" with her. The school radio and player attachment will be used to provide "canned" music.

On Thursday, the cadets were given a test in aircraft recognition. The Hudson's Bay company display of American planes was borrowed by Mr. Stewart, cadet instructor, and the boys were asked to identify the various models. This parade was the last for this term.

The NAN skating party planned for next Friday has been postponed to avoid interference with the Christmas exams, which are scheduled to start on Dec. 18. A fit will be held on Dec. 23 to wind up the terms' activities.

TECHNICAL
By Wilson Burkholder

On Friday, Dec. 4, the home economics club held a tasteless tea to raise money for filling the merchant marine duffle bags. Contributions such as soap, cards, toothpaste, etc., were accepted gratefully as they are needed. A silver collection was taken at the door. Students wishing to go to the tea were excused from classes.

Friday evening, the grade 12's held a sleigh riding party on the south side. Two sleighs were used to carry the happy flock of students and their friends. After the ride everybody returned to "the school where refreshments were served. A gramophone was available for those who wished to dance.

The model aircraft club now meets every Tuesday in the woodwork shop at noon. Each person is given instruction in model aircraft construction if they wish it. Mr. Robinson also has scale model building plans for the airforce to teach the men aircraft recognition.

The Tech chapter of the Hi-Y have plans made for making an honor roll for all Tech students now in the armed services.

The last edition of the Tech Pinion will be a larger and better paper than ever before. The staff plans to have a special Christmas edition of the paper planned to come out before the Christmas holidays.

Eastwood Hi-Y Club Becomes Affiliate

Speaking to members of the Eastwood Hi-Y, Mr. Bull, boys work secretary of the Y.M.C.A. told them that they are the future builders of the country and that they must recognize this fact and prepare themselves for the part they will be called upon to play.

Hi-Y boys should have definite ideals, and a vision of heights that will inspire them to do their best," he said. "This is not merely a study group, but its program is made effective in school and in the community."

Mr. Bull presented the club with the charter affiliating Eastwood Hi-Y with the organization and national council in the dominion.

Reg Hedges, president presided at the business part of the meeting. Mr. McGuire, advisor to the chapter, was also present.

Lewis Garnsworthy Is Contest Winner

Recipient of the Pierce-Goulding trophy is Lewis Garnsworthy, representative of the Holy Trinity Anglican Young Peoples' Association, who put on the best public speaking contest held Dec 4. Mr. Garnsworthy's topic was "The Churches Responsibility in War-time." The trophy will be presented to him at the annual diocesan conference.

Second place winner was Jack Day, who spoke on "Look to the Skies" and Miss Eva Bridge, whose subject was "All Aboard." Miss Betty Purdy also discussed "What a Clock on Jasper Avenue Sees," placed third.

The speakers were judged on subject matter, composition, and delivery, as well as pronunciation and grammar. Dr. A. H. Priest and Mr. Ross were adjudicators.

The Y.M.C.A. took part in the inter-denominational young people's carol service to be held in the Trail Baptist church, Monday, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m.

By NELLIE McCLUNG

Last Monday, the grade eight presented the opera "Hansel and Gretel" as a part of Mrs. Higgins intermediate music program, which is heard every Monday afternoon over CJCA. Much credit is also given to Mrs. Stapleton for her assistance in direction and casting.

Daurel Mills, postgraved Gretel and Joy Skrugley was Hansel. Jim Simpson, the old witch, Mary Lou Lister, the mother, and Harrison Scott, the father.

At a recent meeting of the badminton club Jack Farley was elected secretary-treasurer. The table tennis club, which meets on Wednesday, is now playing off tournament games.

Carol Service

The Christmas carol service, that is being sponsored by the Interdenominational Young Peoples Union, will take place at the First Baptist church, Monday, Dec 14, at 8 p.m. Members of the various choirs in the city are participating groups will co-operate with the Trail Rangers in sponsoring the service.

Robertson Y.P. To Offer Public Christmas Program

For the last few weeks members of Robertson Y.P. society have been working on the program to their first YP night of the season to be presented Friday, Dec. 18, in the church hall. In keeping with the Christmas season, the program will carry a Christmas theme, and will present as entertainers: Shirley MacDonald, Ivy Wolfe, Diana Woodhouse, Joe Tate, violins and their violins, a gymnastic display directed by Lois Watson, and many other features.

Highlight of the show will be a one-act play presented by a group of students from Victoria High school. This play is a light comedy played by actors who have already showed their abilities on other plays put on by Vic. All backstage and lighting is being done by the members themselves with Robbie Allen and Pearlie Lotten in charge.

The group also hopes to put on a Christmas candle-light service on Tuesday, Dec. 22, but since they planned this it was announced that ED. 12 in Gordon Bennett, president of Robertson would be back for the annual Christmas Eve service.

(To be colored with paints or crayons. Whenever you come to a word spelled in CAPITAL letters use that color.)

Of course they are getting ready up in Santa Claus' polar house. Santa Claus has brushed his reindeer's TAN (use BROWN and YELLOW mixed) coat 'til it shines. The reindeer have WHITE spots on his back and forehead, throat and stomach are White too. Santa Claus bought his reindeer new RED reins and bridle and a lovely belt of GREEN and YELLOW bells sewed all around it and a RED border down both sides. The reindeer has long YELLOW antlers. His eyes are light BROWN.

Santa Claus' Helpers are little GRAY (use BLACK lightly) bearded men dressed in BROWN. They wear YELLOW bells.

"Here's a fine 'mamma' dolly for some good little Miss!" cries one Helper, holding a YELLOW-haired dolly in one arm. "And a plump bear for a little one!" he adds, leading a very fat TAN teddy bear along by one arm. The doll has a pretty BLUE frock on. It has bands of YELLOW about the neck and sleeve. The teddy bear wears a big RED bow tie.

"Toot, toot!" toots another Helper, blowing a shiny YELLOW trumpet. "Here's a few somethings for the boys. A big RED drum with YELLOW trimmings and head—and here is Jumbo! How about a fine GRAY elephant steed with a GREEN and PURPLE rug on its back and a RED mouth to eat peanuts with?"

"And here for a little lady!" cries a third Helper. "This pale BLUE baby coach for a dear lady's baby doll! O, my, with PINK (use RED lightly) blankets inside and a strong YELLOW handle to push it with. What a happy little girl my lady will be!"

"Ho!" the reindeer. "Just look at that tall GREEN fir tree!" Hes been coaxing those YELLOW stars out of the dark BLUE heavens for most a month now. He has and those two larger ones are coming to help too!"

"We are indeed!" shout the stars. "And we have persuaded the aurora borealis to join us!" See! They are RED, YELLOW, BLUE and PURPLE streamers to trim the fir tree for Santa Claus' Christmas tree (paint the colors in strips, letting each color lap over the one preceding so as to get a mixed color between). Won't old Santa Claus be surprised!"

The little men have PINK cheeks and RED noses.

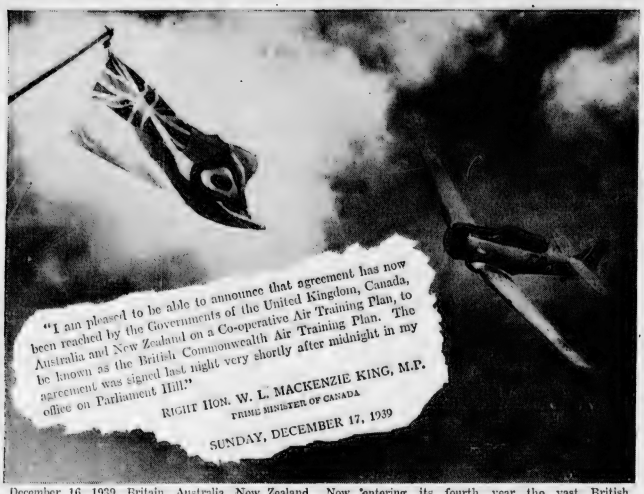

The border extending behind the letters too can be RED and the letters can be GREEN.

Airmen From Canadian "University of The Air" Battle Over Every Front
Three-Year-Old British Commonwealth Air Training Plan Hastens Victory

December 16, 1939, Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Canada signed the agreement which launched the Empire's answer to the Luftwaffe's threat.

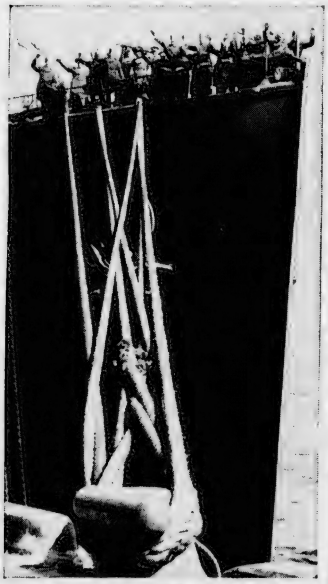

Now entering its fourth year the vast British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is pouring out the trained men who are gaining mastery of air.

Canada, through the Royal Canadian Air Force, is administrator of the vast plan. Air Minister Power and Air Marshal Breadner are the directing geniuses.

Construction work started the day after signing of the agreement. The Plan has not known a full day's holiday since. More than 140 aerodromes were built.

First a trickle, then a stream, now a great torrent of fighting airmen is pouring overseas from the plan. Early graduates are pictured above headed for battle.

They serve at home as well as overseas. Canada's coasts, too, must be well protected. Kittyhawks and their pilots at a coastal fighter station are constantly ready for instant action at any hint of enemy activity. They also fly regular "sweeps" hunting U-boats, protecting shipping.

In Alaska R.C.A.F. graduates of the B.C.A.T.P. fly alongside U.S. forces. Typical pilot is Flight Sgt. "Mick" Stusiak, Powell River, B.C., with Kittyhawk.

Thousands of the Plan's products helped in routing Rommel in the Western Desert. R.C.A.F. men on camel are the crew of the B-25 bomber in the background.

Men trained in Canada, most of them Canadians, form the crews of Britain's biggest bombers like the Stirlings above. The terrific lambasting of Nazi industrial centres tells the best story of the Air Training Plan's success.

Back from a raid over Germany, these lads (ABOVE) schooled for their task in Canada, tell the intelligence officer of the devastation they wrought. In Ceylon, too, they serve. (BELOW) An R.C.A.F. Catalina squadron fights there.

CHAPTER XXII

STENSGARD shivered with a vague foreboding, though he did not at first realize what the old man meant. "It's time we started," he said. "You can tell us on the way."

But Malken paid no attention. Importantly he went to the alcove door, and then to the hall to make sure no one was listening. "Thought our Quisling might be hiding in the corner," he said.

"If you mean my son," the doctor snapped angrily, "I forbade him the house this morning. He's living at the hotel."

"Well," said Malken, nodding good-naturedly, "I didn't know. My congratulations. As a matter of fact, I myself had a visitor from the hotel this afternoon. She brought me my news."

Stensgard flushed. "Well, what news?" he cried.

"Ja," Malken said. "Ja. Dr. Stensgard. If you will go to the dock tonight between ten and four you will find a soldier named Karl Fischer. He's the man you've been looking for."

The doctor's face turned white. He wet his lips and saw they were all gazing expectantly up at him. "Is . . . is that so?" he stammered. "You are sure of the name?"

Malken nodded.

Stensgard started up the stairs, but at that moment Gunnar went over to him and put a hand on his shoulder. "There will be time later," he murmured, and then when the doctor still seemed uncertain, added, "If you wish . . . we can go with you later . . . to the dock."

"Of course," Stensgard said confusedly. "It might be better. He will be armed." What he meant is that he did not know, or what he would do, what they would be expecting him to do.

The summer house was bare, swept by a cold sea wind that cut down the inland fjord water into rough crests and valleys.

They knew, all of them, as they gathered that night on the dark landing that this was the most dangerous action they had ever attempted, and the one most likely to miscarry. But not a man spoke of it.

They brought down the gasoline tins quietly, carefully, and handed them forward onto the boats. In the dark, Gunnar and Sverre Trog, the other fisherman, primed the motors, filled the tanks, and stowed two tins under each of the stern seats. Then the doctor came down, carrying compass, light and binoculars, and went ashore again to get the oars. They were to row well beyond earshot of the point before they started the motors.

The boats themselves were two 18-foot sloops that Stensgard had bought years before for summer sailing. Why he had taken both he never knew, except that they were offered at a bargain. Masts, mainsails and spinnakers had been removed as too conspicuous, but both boats were admirably fitted for the work at hand, being wide-bellied, and having each a decked space forward large enough to carry a great quantity of arms and keep them dry.

When everything was ready, equipment checked, and the six who were going had clambered aboard, a signal was arranged for their return. On seeing a light from the fjord inlet, the watchers on shore were to swing a lamp rapidly up and down if the coast was clear but to make no sign at all if there were troops in the neighborhood.

Lars Malken, standing in the summer house and waiting with all his heart that he could go, was surprised to see how quickly they got away. One minute they were still ashore; the next they had cast off and were lost from sight in the darkness. Only Gunnar's voice carried faintly over the water, saying "We catch the tide both ways. Ought to be back by 11 o'clock."

When they had rowed about a quarter of an hour beyond the point Gunnar called for them to ship oars in the other boat, and at the same time went all himself to start the motor.

It seemed to the doctor that they rode at least an hour, though it was only a little more than half that time. He got wet through with the seas that poured in over the side, and the snow that seemed more like sleet driven in the wind, cut at his eyes until he had to turn aft in order to see at all.

Just at that moment he heard the motor stop. He turned in time to see Gunnar swing the tiller hard around and rise to one knee, looking back for the other boat. And then off in the darkness they heard a loud halloo, and there to starboard was Sverre Trog standing in the stern of the second sloop. It was five after 10 by the doctor's watch.

What happened then came so quickly that only Sverre Trog, who was by good fortune looking in the right direction, saw all of it. "I was standing aft," he told them later on shore, "and in a rolling sea so I could hardly keep my feet, when all of a sudden I caught sight of it blowing off to the north. First a line of white breakers and something like a fish in the middle, and then all at once she was up, not 50 yards away, with a lot of sailors pouring fast out of the hatch, training a light and a deck gun on us. Gunnar whipped around then, and everybody yelled out, and we heard a voice calling over 'Doctor . . . doctor, are you there?' It was that easy. Two minutes later we were tied up alongside and they started lifting the boxes down to us."

Buck, in a light brown raincoat, leaned over to shake hands with the doctor, and when the boats were fast, helped him up onto the narrow, spray-lashed deck.

Stensgard hardly heard Buck talking. "It'll only take a few minutes," the man was saying. "Thank God it's a bad night. Even have a wireless sender for you." And a moment later, "How's Miss Bjarneen up at the hotel? Damned clever woman you have there."

The British crew, in sweaters, wool caps and dungarees, were handing the brown boxes over the side, with a quartermaster calling out their contents. "Four light machine guns. Fifteen thousand rounds of 30-calibre ammunition. One hundred hand grenades. Three hundred bayonets." Gunnar and Sverre were standing in the boats at the submarine's side, carrying the boxes over to Olaf and the butcher to be stowed below decks. "Here come the rifles," the quartermaster called. "Three hundred, an' don't stop t' count 'em." They were in six cases, packed in grease.

"Ho, Gunnar," Sverre called, "we could make a little army with this."

Osterholm, behind him, could hardly hide his disappointment. "The old story," he was thinking bitterly. "Four machine guns against the German army." But he did not say a word. After all, they should be glad to get that much.

"All clear," a man called out below. It was young Olaf and the doctor felt better to hear the strong Norwegian voice.

A few feet away on the dark, sloping deck, the quartermaster was trying to explain something to Gunnar about the machine guns and Buck, towering darkly over them both, was acting as interpreter.

"All clear."

The snow had already formed a gray patch on the rolling side of the conning tower. Under it on the black steel, Stensgard could read the numerals "717."

"So this was England, their ally. "Good luck," a sailor called down to Gunnar, and the fisherman turned, laughing and waving his arm back over his head.

Gunnar sat at the tiller, and they turned and made for land on the ingoing tide. Looking back he saw the black hull of the submarine go dark. In half a minute more it had vanished altogether.

The journey in was very swift and because the boats were heavily laden they rode a good deal more smoothly. When in half an hour they cut the motors and came gliding in at the fjord mouth with the dark hills rising again around them, young Sverre Trog in the other boat dropped the tiller and cheered silently. Then he put a match to the oil lamp on the seat beside him.

And when they saw the answering light on shore, swinging almost jubilantly up and down at the cargo they were bringing in, they drew in the oars. Every one of them felt suddenly tired.

Heavy Explosion In Powder Plant Kills 2 Workers

KINGS MILLS, O. Dec. 12. — (AP) — Two men were killed and three injured—one seriously—when a separator and corning mill at the Kings Power Company exploded late yesterday.

The blast was felt in Washington court house, about 40 miles from this community near Cincinnati. Its cause was not announced.

Two days ago approximately 600 pounds of powder exploded at the plant but no one was injured.

Regulations forbid individuals sending newspapers overseas. The Edmonton Bulletin prints the news of the week in letter form. This week's letter covers the period from December 7 to 12. Clip it out and send it to your loved ones and friends.

Dear

The annual Christmas shopping rush is now underway with stores crowded all day with those eager to get their Yuletide gifts before stocks have been completely picked over. Children by the hundreds are haunting the various toylands in the big department stores, but there is a noticeable decrease in the types of toys available this year. The weather, which during the first of the week was definitely on the frigid side, looked to turn for the better, and by Friday the mercury had clambered back to above zero levels from a season's low mark of 25 below.

Monday

Despite great concentration on the war effort in Canada, interest in welfare work has increased encouragingly throughout the Dominion, Dr. George F. Davidson, Ottawa, executive director for Canada of the Canadian Welfare Council, said on arrival here yesterday. Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce, has released census figures which show that more than three-quarters of Edmonton's population has English as its mother tongue. Edmonton's proportion is slightly above the proportion for the whole province.

Expansion of Edmonton as an industrial, business and war centre is demonstrated in the $52,059,258 increase in clearings through the city's chartered banks for the 11 months ending November 30, 1942. Clearings for that period totalled $290,341,065 compared with $238,281,827 for the corresponding period last year.

E. F. McGarvey, popular member of the Edmonton Kiwanis Club, was installed as Governor of Kiwanis clubs of western Canada at a two-day mid-winter conference at Regina. Resolution calling upon the provincial government to increase wages of civil servants so they "will compare favorably with those paid to Federal government employees in similar classifications" was passed at the annual meeting of the Civil Service Association of Alberta here Saturday.

On the week-end sports front: R.C.A.F. Hurricanes of Toronto, regained the Grey cup, emblematic of the Canadian football championship, by turning back Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers 8-5 Saturday in Toronto.

Four games were played in the N.H.L. and here are the scores: Toronto 2, Detroit 2; Boston 5, Rangers 4; Montreal 2, Chicago 2; Montreal 1, Toronto 9.

Tuesday

Reserve coal pile at the city power plant was depleted by approximately 7,000 tons during the six-week period from the middle of October to the end of November, it was reported by R. G. Watson, power house superintendent. Coal receipts have been depleted owing to the existing shortage of fuel due to lack of mine labor and weather difficulties experienced by truckers.

Trans-Canada Air Lines would like to increase services in the western divisional area, as the volume of traffic certainly warrants it, but lack of trained pilot personnel prevents an increase at this time, Edmonton Lodge, No. 11, B.P.O.E., have elected their officers for the new term. Chris Olsen is the new exalted ruler of the Elks, succeeding S. P. "Pete" Derbyshire. Other officers are Bill Rogers, leading knight; Robert Dunn, loyal knight; Hugh Holland, lecturing knight; Eddie Zaplinsk, recording secretary; H. Davis, inner guard; Wilfred Dings, outer guard; Douglas Middlejohn, trustee. The two continuing trustees are William Beck and Otto Sundahl.

Two children died from burns, and their uncle is in a critical condition as the result of a fire that destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ostapchuk, Thorsby, late Monday night. The dead are Viney Ostapchuk, 3, and her brother, James, 8. Critically burned and lying in an Edmonton hospital is Steve Ostapchuk, 24. The young girl died in a neighbor's car while on the way to Edmonton.

Wednesday

Motion to recommend to council a resolution providing for an amendment to Edmonton's "anti-noise" by-law by including a clause to prevent the sounding of railway engine whistles at level crossings within the city limits, was passed by the civic by-laws committee Tuesday.

Edmonton teachers who were unable to get to their schools to carry on teaching duties as a result of the blizzard of November 15, are to get their full salaries. The School Board rejected a recommendation of the finance committee that these employees not be allowed their salaries for such time as they were absent.

Edmonton's street railway system has set another new record. Last Saturday 103,723 passengers were carried by the trams. Heavy passenger loads are now being carried by 72 street cars, 8 trolley buses and 10 diesel buses. Three city firemen were admitted to the University hospital today suffering from the effects of smoke received when they were putting out a fire on the second floor of the Medical building of the U. of A. The fire broke out in the chemical room at 1 a.m., but was extinguished with only slight damage done.

The new half-hourly "owl" service on the two main lines of the street railway system will come into operation Sunday, Dec. 13 at 12:30 a.m., it was announced today by city commissioners. A 35-cent fare will be charged for this special service which will remain in effect for trial until Jan. 15 next. "Owl" trams will operate on the blue line from North Edmonton to West Edmonton and on the white line from Highlands to the South Side between the hours of 12:30 a.m. and 2 a.m. daily except Sunday.

Only one game was scheduled in the National Hockey League last night, Boston Bruins piling up a 9-6 count against Chicago Black Hawks.

Thursday

Extension of the benefits of the wheat producers acreage bonus to farmers who use horses in place of tractors, and other power-driven farm machinery in 1943, was urged in a resolution passed at the meeting of the Alberta Provincial Horse Breeders Association here. A report is being awaited on the possibility of placing members of the Hutterite farm colonies in Alberta in coal mines and lumber camps for the winter months to assist in meeting the existing shortage of labor.

Postal authorities are faced with the problem of obtaining at least 200 extra helpers for the main city post office to cope with the expected record breaking volume of Christmas mail. An official stated Thursday that at least 200 extra helpers will be required almost immediately, and the question of whether that number will be obtained is doubtful. When Johnny gets the neck of the turkey this Christmas, he can be partially consoled by the knowledge that he is nevertheless eating a rather precious morsel, for the birds are going to come high. Meat retailers predict a wholesale price of 34 cents per pound for grade A turkeys, maximum allowed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The 34 cents a pound wholesale means from 37 to 38 cents a pound by the time mother gets it into the oven.

The Peace River district and other areas in the northwest portion of Alberta will change over from Mountain Daylight Saving Time to Pacific Daylight Saving Time as from midnight, Sunday, Dec. 12, 1942, it was announced today. Necessary authority for the change in time is provided by an order-in-council passed by the provincial government.

Friday

Boxing Day—Saturday, Dec. 26—will be observed as a statutory holiday following a proclamation issued Friday by the provincial government. As a result of a warning issued earlier this week by Dr. G. M. Little, city medical health officer, 70 children reported Thursday at the health department in the Civic Block for inoculations against diphtheria.

Authorization of the establishment in Edmonton of light aid detachments in the Reserve Army, was announced Friday by headquarters of M.D. 13 at Calgary. These detachments, three of which will be recruited immediately, will be under the command of Capt. Charles E. Garnett and will be attached for training to the 1st (Res.) Armored Divisional Ordnance Workshop, R.C.O.C. and located at the Connaught Armory, South Side.

Today at Winnipeg Premier John Bracken of Manitoba was elected leader of the Conservative party at the National Conservative convention there. Premier Bracken defeated four other nominees for the leadership. They were: M. A. MacKinnon, Regina; H. H. Stevens, Vancouver; Howard Green, Vancouver and John Diefenbaker, M.P. for Lake Center.

The vote was:

	First Ballot	Second Ballot
Bracken	420	578
MacKinnon	222	255
Diefenbaker	139	79
Green	88
Stevens	70

(Green and Stevens withdrew after the first ballot.)

Damage to the North Delton school in a fire last Wednesday, was chiefly from water and smoke. J. A. McAfee, plant superintendent, told the School Board properly committee at a meeting Thursday. Another class of girls graduate at the week-end from the Basic Training Centre of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, at Vermilion. Forty of the graduates are from Alberta, a slightly larger percentage than from the other provinces; 31 each from Saskatchewan and Manitoba, eight from Ontario and 52 from B.C.

Saturday

It's mighty nice to see the mild weather. As early as 8 o'clock this morning there was slush on the streets. Many people are getting worried about the roofs of their houses and garages after that 19½-inch snowstorm on Nov. 15. There has been a great deal of sweeping and shovelling snow from said roofs. But is is a welcome relief to have the milder weather. Also good fr Christmas.

It will be three years tomorrow since the Edmonton Regiment left here for overseas. Seems a long time since all you boys went away, and yet the years pass quickly.

The major sports event of last night was a girls' basketball game between the C.W.A.C. and Bissell Memorial squads. The Bissell group won by a wide margin, 61-10.

Next week hockey will be in full swing, with juvenile, junior and midget leagues going strong. That's all for now. Best of luck until next week.

Alberta Farmers Paid $3,000,000 In Wheat Claims

Nearly three million dollars in cheques has gone out to farmers for wheat acreage reduction, W. C. Barrie, director of the W.A.R. for the province of Alberta, announced Friday.

Out of approximately 37,000 claims filed by farmers during 1942 in the Edmonton offices, 34,000 have been received. Payment has been made on 40 per cent of these claims. Mr. Barrie said, and the remainder are being sent to the treasury for payment as quickly as they can be checked and audited.

HUGE REDUCTION

The year 1942 has seen farmers in Alberta reduce their wheat acreage by 2,673,320 acres. Of this amount, 1,274,320 acres were sown to coarse grains, which means barley, oats, corn, pease and flax. Four hundred thousand acres were sown to grass, meaning all grasses, clovers, alfalfa and millet; 38,000 acres to rye, and 96,100 acres were summer fallowed.

Mr. Barrie stated that results of the wheat acreage reduction plan can be seen by statistics. In 1940 farmers in the province sowed 8,667,000 acres to wheat. In 1941, they had reduced their acreage 35 per cent over the previous year, and this year, the reduction has been 30 per cent over the 1940 figure.

Getting Around

squadrons also received their training in Canada.

Now that the United States Army Air Forces are playing an increasingly greater role in the growing aerial storm that will soon overwhelm the Axis, the time is not so far distant when it will be almost a case of the new world literally flying to the rescue of the old, even although the very rescue involving almost total destruction of the lands being redeemed.

Edmonton has played a leading role in the air training plan, with air observer, navigation and bombing schools here.

In addition many hundreds of pilots received early training here when an elementary training school was in operation here.

Many of the men who put Edmonton on the aerial map of the world, in the pioneer days of aviation before the war, have been quite appropriately to the fore in the carrying out of the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

Capt. W. R. "Wop" May, O.B.E., D.F.C., who manages No. 2 Air Observers School, Wing Commander "Con" Farrell, D.F.C., who organized the chain of air stations between Edmonton and the Yukon, and several others, are playing a big part in making the United Nations supreme in the air.

In the current issue of Maclean's Magazine, the London Letter feature of A. Beverley Baxter, M.P., has as a sub title: "Air Power Will Shorten the War."

Mr. Baxter was describing an interview with Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air, and other leaders in the air industry. As Sir Archibald described with pride and satisfaction the growing might of the Allies in the air, the secretary for air said it would never have been possible for the R.A.F. to keep up its huge personnel requirements without the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

He also revealed there was much pressure, early in the war, to have the air ministry construct training facilities and air fields in French North Africa and Morocco.

And Mr. Baxter ends up on a note that is truly optimistic as follows:

"There is no safety for the Axis powers anywhere. The spirit of attack, lit like a torch by the Canadians at Dieppe, is sweeping across England at this hour. The hour of vengeance has struck, and, unless every portent is wrong, this will prove the final winter of the war."

Officers Elected By Dog Fanciers

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Edmonton Dog Fanciers' club was held Wednesday, when A. E. Figg was chosen president for the ensuing year.

First vice-president is R. H. McMillan; second vice-president, Mrs. J. J. Glover; secretary, Miss M. Mulligan; and members of the executive: J. Caswell, C. Haggith, P. Amy, Mrs. D. Kilgannon, and Dr. A. J. Malmas.

The past year was reported a successful one with $200 being contributed to war work, as well as gifts and donations to needy members' sons and daughters now on active service.

A special vote of thanks was offered for this work to Mrs. J. S. Grant, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. M. D. Gardner, Mrs. W. S. Marr and Mrs. R. E. Smith.

Appreciation was also expressed to the past president, Mrs. J. S. Grant, for her service during the past year.

OF COURSE HE'D HAVE TO COME IN JUST WHEN WE WANT TO LOOK OVER THE THINGS WE BOUGHT TODAY.

WHY NOT SEND HIM ON SOME ERRAND?

DID YOU CALL ME, MOM?

YES--WILL YOU PLEASE GO DOWN TO THE DRUG STORE AND GET SOME RAZOR BLADES FOR YOUR FATHER?

SHUCKS, DAD WON'T BE HOME TILL SUPPER TIME

HE'S GONE! I HEARD THE FRONT DOOR SLAM!

THIS WAS A PRETTY EXPENSIVE FOOT-BALL!

WELL, IT'S BEST TO BUY A GOOD ONE--WILLIS WILL LOVE IT!

WE'RE CERTAINLY DOING WELL BY THAT BOY THIS YEAR!

I'LL SAY! AND WITH THE SLED UNCLE ARTHUR SENT HIM AND THE SET OF BOOKS FROM GRANDMA AND THE SKIS FROM ME AND THE WAR BOND FROM AUNT CLARA--

WE'D BETTER PUT THE THINGS AWAY!

HE MIGHT POP IN ANY MINUTE!

WELL I SURE PUT SOMETHING OVER---

"This Curious World"

old world of ours is full of strange people; strange animals; strange facts and strange fancies. Old Mother Nature works wisely and well, but sometimes her ways are too deep, too for us to fathom. But there's a way to keep in touch with the vagaries of nature and learn the whys and wherefores of her strange ways. Daily in The Bulletin, "This Curious

PERRY WHITE ISSUES AN ASSIGNMENT FATED TO LEAD LOIS LANE AND CLARK KENT INTO ONE OF THEIR MOST GRIPPING ADVENTURES.....

HOLLYWOOD, HERE WE COME!

2 TRAVEL PRIORITIES PREARRANGED, A FAST TRANSCONTINENTAL AIRLINER CARRIES THE TWO REPORTERS TO THE WEST COAST....

I'M TOM GREGORY, THE DIRECTOR IN CHARGE OF THE "CARAVAN'S" TOUR. IF YOU'LL FOLLOW ME TO THE SET WHERE THE STARS ARE REHEARSING THEIR STUNTS FOR THE SHOW, I'LL INTRODUCE THEM TO YOU.

THAT WILL BE FINE.

OF COURSE YOU'VE SEEN MANY OF IRMA FORSYTHE'S PICTURES. THE STORY OF WHY SHE VOLUNTEERED FOR THE TOUR IS WORTH PUBLICIZING.

I MANAGED TO LEAVE GERMANY DURING THE EARLY DAYS OF THE NAZI TERROR, AND SO I KNOW THE MEANING OF FASCIST TYRANNY. I'M ONLY TOO EAGER TO DO MY PART TO SMASH IT.

INTERESTING!

4 GREGORY EXCUSES HIMSELF LONG ENOUGH TO ATTEMPT A RECONCILIATION BETWEEN JIM MASON AND BOB FRANKLIN, TWO ONE-TIME FRIENDS WHO HAVEN'T SPOKEN TO EACH OTHER IN YEARS....

IT'S TIME YOU TWO CALLED A TRUCE.

I'LL AGREE TO TOLERATE FRANKLIN'S PRESENCE ON THE TOUR... BUT THAT'S AS FAR AS MY CO-OPERATION GOES.

THAT'S OKAY WITH ME, MASON. WE'LL GET ALONG FINE AS LONG AS WE STAY OUT OF EACH OTHER'S WAY.

ANYTHING ELSE OF SPECIAL INTEREST THAT WE CAN TELEGRAPH TO THE DAILY PLANET?

NOTHING—EXCEPT THAT WE RECEIVED AN ANONYMOUS NOTE WARNING US NOT TO LAUNCH THE SHOW'S OPENING PERFORMANCE TONIGHT. NATURALLY, WE'LL DISREGARD IT.

I WONDER IF THAT'S WISE!

5 THAT EVENING—CLARK AND LOIS ATTEND THE VICTORY CARAVANS BIG HOLLYWOOD PREMIERE

JUST LIKE IN THE NEWSREELS!

WHERE ARE YOU GOING, CLARK?

TO WATCH THE FANFARE OUTSIDE. BE BACK IN A FEW MINUTES.

6 BUT SLIPPING THRU AN EMERGENCY EXIT THE MEEK NEWSPAPER REPORTER SWITCHES TO THE DYNAMIC IDENTITY OF THE WORLD'S MOST POWERFUL MAN....

IT'S TRUE THAT WARNING MIGHT HAVE BEEN JUST A HARMLESS CRANK LETTER....

STAGE ENTRAN

.... BUT ON THE OTHER HAND, THERE'S NO HARM IN MY BEING ON GUARD.... JUST IN CASE....

EXCITEMENT BELOW! MY PRECAUTIONS MAY NOT HAVE BEEN IN VAIN!
